DEFENSE FUND ESTIMATES UP 750 MILLIONS

PRESIDENT WANTS WEAPON ORDERS SPEEDED

Washington, May 29 (AP)—Military lessons learned from Germany's blitzkrieg led President Roosevelt today to rush preparation of a request that congress add another large sum—probably $750,000,000—to the $1,182,000,000 extraordinary defense fund.

General George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, was reported to have told a house appropriations sub-committee that $750,000,000 would be necessary to buy more powerful anti-tank guns, a new type of light machine gun, additional mechanized equipment and other weapons.

Committee members said that the general testified the relentless march of German troops already had demonstrated the comparative ineffectiveness of the 37 millimeter anti-tank guns.

New Guns Developed

"That's why the French were forced to use their 75 millimeter field guns at point blank range," one legislator said. "We may have to develop a 90 millimeter weapon, the same size as our newest anti-aircraft guns, to meet the situation.

Members said the European war also had demonstrated the need for a light machine gun which soldiers could strap on and fire at any angle in front of them. One member mentioned a gun capable of firing 400 shots a minute. They said German parachute troops and other units used such guns with deadly effect.

A new anti-aircraft gun to combat the dive bombers also is being developed by the army, members said. This weapon was described as designed for use in synchronized batteries of 16 guns which would move on a half sphere and thus be capable of firing at 16 different angles at once so as to take care of bombers diving at their targets from many directions.

Air Arm Important

Legislators said the supplemental estimates also would include funds for about 1,800 new airplanes, chiefly training and pursuit types.

The place of aviation in the defense program was emphasized again during the day when Mr. Roosevelt requested immediate appropriation of $1,200,000 to improve the research laboratory of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics at Langley Field, Va.

In a letter to Speaker Bankhead, meanwhile, Roosevelt urged upon the nation a "sober resolve: * * * that neither by moral unfitness nor neglect of our physical defense shall we permit the lamp of freedom to be extinguished in this land." The communication was read at ceremonies in the

'Bless Thou These Blossoms'

In a quaint, old-world ceremony held in the cherry orchards at Traverse City, Mich., the Rev. William Chamberlain Warner (left), rector of Grace Episcopal, is shown leading a procession down the rows of trees asking Divine blessing on the blooms. The ceremony is held as the trees reach the peak of their blooms.

HATCH POLITICS BAN IS REVIVED

Campaign Book Racket Barred Under New Amendment

Washington, May 29. (AP)—The Hatch political practices bill was approved by the same house judiciary committee which four weeks ago consigned it to a pigeon hole.

The legislation, passed by the senate, prohibits state and local government employes who are paid with federal funds from taking active part in political campaigns. It is a companion measure to an existing law applying to federal employes.

Today's action by a vote of 16 to 8, climaxed nearly two months of committee deliberations. On May 1, the committee voted secretly, 14 to 10, to table the measure. This action later was rescinded and deliberations were resumed.

The committee added several amendments to the senate version, one of which would limit the expenditures of political committees to $3,000,000 during a campaign. This would reduce the spending of both the Republican and Democratic national committees below the levels of the 1936 campaigns. The former spent $8,065,524 and the latter $5,030,848 that year.

Another committee amendment would forbid the buying of any commodity or advertising space if the proceeds of the transaction were destined for any political organization or candidate. Rep. Vreeland (R-N.J.), who proposed this addition, said it was aimed at such practices as the sale by the Democrats in 1936 of "campaign books." The Republicans have been contending that the book sale was "a shake-down."

Proposed Federal Beer Tax Won't Be Hard On Consumer

Detroit, May 29, (AP)—Michigan brewers reassured the ultimate consumers of their product today that the proposed increase in the federal excise tax on beer would make no serious inroad on their pocketbooks.

Draught beer probably will remain ten cents a glass, they predicted, since the proposed one-dollar increase on each barrel will be neglible when spread over approximately 400 ten-ounce glasses which a 32-gallon barrel would provide.

Similarly, the increase in the retail price of a case of beer—which amounts to approximately one-thirteenth of a barrel—would be only 7½ cents.

Nice, France, May 29 (AP) — The Duke and Duchess of Windsor, traveling incognito, have arrived at their La Croe estate on the Riviera. They will stay for an indefinite period.

Great Lakes Boats In Canadian Fleet May Go To England

Ottawa, Ont., May 29, (AP)—A fleet of 21 Canadian Great Lakes freighters may be sent to England shortly for coastwise trade around the British Isles in the service of the British government, it was reported here today.

Britain chartered eight such lake freighters from the Canada Steamship Lines last autumn, and the British authorities have opened negotiations now through the Canadian shipping board to acquire the additional fleet of 21 sturdy Canadian lakeboats.

Final arrangements for transfer of the boats to Britain's service will be completed shortly, but names and present owners of the vessels could not be learned.

WILCOX OUSTER DELAY REFUSED

Indicted Wayne Sheriff Loses His Plea to Gov. Dickinson

Lansing, May 29 (AP)—Governor Dickinson today overruled a plea that he defer judgment in ouster procedings against Thomas C. Wilcox, indicted sheriff of Wayne county, until after Wilcox has ben tried in court.

The plea was presented as attorneys in the case completed their final step—oral arguments presented to the governor.

Wilcox himself conferred with Dickinson before the attorneys took over, describing his appearance as intended merely to "show the governor that I have not grown horns."

George S. Fitzgerald, counsel for the sheriff, told Dickinson that "the fair American" way would require that he withhold judgment until a jury has determined whether Wilcox is guilty of the graft and conspiracy charges that a one-man grand jury has preferred against him.

He declared the governor has "the right to remove him instantly on his conviction."

Fitzgerald criticized the conduct of Thomas A. Kenny, assistant attorney general, at the ouster hearing before Probate Judge John Hollander, of Kalamazoo. Dickinson designated Judge Hollander to hear and the case and submit to him a transcript of testimony, on which the chief executive would base his decision.

Unity Party Chiefs Arrested In Canada

Montreal, May 30 (Thursday) (AP)—The Royal Canadian Mounted Police, acting under defense regulations, moved early today to serve warrants for the arrest of Adrien Arcand, head of the National Unity party, and seven of his associates.

3 MARQUETTE STARS APPEAR IN EXHIBITIONS

250 TO PARTICIPATE IN 13TH ANNUAL SCHOOL EVENT

Climaxing the most extensive track season in the history of Upper Peninsula high schools, approximately 250 athletes representing 23 schools will participate in the 13th annual Upper Peninsula Relay Carnival at the Escanaba athletic field this afternoon.

Preliminaries in the pole vault, low hurdles and one hundred yard dash events will be held at 1 o'clock, fast time. Flag raising ceremonies under the direction of the Cloverland Post of the American Legion will take place promptly at 2 o'clock and the regular order of events will start immediately thereafter.

A feature of the afternoon's Carnival program will be special exhibitions by three Marquette university athletes, Earl Stolberg, Bob Shurilla and Art Schwope. Stolberg, a former Iron Mountain high school star who still holds the Relays record in the pole vault event at 12 feet 3 inches, will give an exhibition in his specialty. Stolberg recently vaulted 14 feet one-half inch, the feat ranking him among the greatest vaulters of the world today.

Track In Good Shape

Shurilla and Schwope are hurdlers, who have captured almost every hurdle race Marquette has competed in this year. They are equally adept at negotiating the high or low barriers and will give a demonstration of their ability.

The track and runways for the pole vault are in splendid shape, having had a lot of rain. If the weatherman's promise of sunny skies is fulfilled, there undoubtedly will be several records broken during the course of the afternoon, although times in all events are getting so fast that fewer records are broken each year. Last year, only one mark went by the boards.

In addition to the eight relay races, there are three special individual events. They are the pole vault, low hurdles and one hundred yard dash and classy fields of competitors are listed in tach of these events.

Among visiting college coaches expected to be present are Con Jennings of Marquette university, Dale Sprankle of Albion college and C. B. Hedgcock of Northern State Teachers college.

University Budget Increased $300,000

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 29 (AP)—The University of Michigan will have $300,000 more to spend during the next academic year than during the one which is just drawing to a close.

The board of regents announced a budget of $6,821,356 today, explaining that economies during the current year and increased student fees would make the increase possible.

Traffic Toll

Cleveland, May 29 (AP)—William G. Morell, 38, former Detroit radio announcer, was killed here tonight in the crash of his automobile into a traffic light standard. He came to Cleveland in March and was production manager for the Business Film Products Co. of Cleveland.

Bloomfield, Ind., May 29 (AP)—Five men were killed and a woman was injured dangerously tonight in an automobile collision at the intersection of State Roads 54 and 57 five miles west of here.

The dead:

William Hermann, 35, Mt. Vernon jeweler and driver of one of the motor cars.

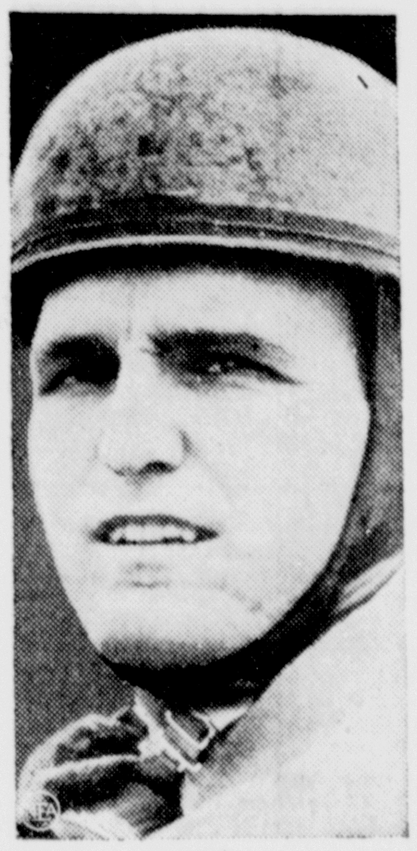
Samuel G. Jones, Jr., of Mt. Vernon; Louis J. Mann, 21, Posey county farm youth, and Paul J. Grund of Evansville, passengers in the Hermann automobile.

Walter F. Carroll, 33, Bloomfield insurance salesman and driver of the other vehicle.

A woman, identified as Hermann's widow, was taken to a Linton hospital where physicians expressed belief she would die.

The Hermann party was en route to the 500-mile automobile race at Indianapolis tomorrow.

Pole Driver



Rex Mays

On the inside in the front row today when 32 or 33 race drivers roar off for the 28th annual running of the 500-mile automobile speedway race at Indianapolis, will be Rex Mays, above, who qualified at 127.850 miles an hour. The race today, starting at 11 a. m., EST, will be worth around $35,000 to the winner, and is expected to draw over 125,000 spectators. (Story on sport page.)

END OF AFL-CIO RIFT PREDICTED

Rival Labor Groups May Join to Push U. S. Defense Program

Washington, May 29 (AP)—Men in both the AFL and CIO said they would not be surprised if Sidney Hillman, named by President Roosevelt to co-ordinate the labor effort in the defense program, would launch a move to end the strife between the rival labor organizations when the CIO national executive board meets here Monday.

Hillman, vice president of the CIO, was one of the seven national defense commissioners appointed yesterday.

Harry C. Bates, chairman of the AFL peace committee, said that although he had received no definite indication that a new peace effort was imminent, he believed that a settlement should be made to avoid any friction which might endanger the defense program.

He suggested that both sides might yield some ground to obtain a lasting agreement.

"There should be a settlement of the trouble," Bates declared, "so that organizations of both sides can gain the benefit of their united strength in maintaining wage and working conditions they have been able to establish.

"It would eliminate the possibility of friction between both groups which might endanger the defense program, especially where the two sides would be thrown into contact with each other in production plans."

Surface relations between Hillman and CIO President John L. Lewis have been cordial, but it is known that inside the CIO councils they have differed sharply on major policy matters.

Revenue Increases From Gasoline Levy

Lansing, May 29 (AP)—The gasoline tax should produce $5,000,000 more revenues in 1940 than it did in 1939, Secretary of State Harry F. Kelly estimated today.

As of May 24, gas tax collections amounted to $12,242,711 Kelly said, compared with $11,036,156 in the same period of 1939.

That figure Kelly said indicated gross collections this year of $34,200,000.

Crack Train Kills Battle Creek Man

Battle Creek, Mich., May 29 (AP)—The Michigan Central's crack Mercury, traveling between 75 and 80 miles an hour, struck an automobile here today, killing the driver, Henry B. Shay, 56-year-old millwright foreman. The train was eastbound when the crash occurred.

Dickinson Stresses Preparedness With Memorial Day Note

Lansing, May 29 (AP)—Governor Dickinson, in a Memorial Day statement today, asserted Michigan citizens must "organize and be ready to do our full share to protect ourselves and our industries from the fifth column."

Asserting that this state is "face to face with a terrible and rapidly developing war situation," the governor outlined the state government's strategic position in industry and as a "friendly neighbor" to Canada as indicating a need for defense measures at home.

Canada Close Neighbor

"In our own defense we must be ready to do our full share if we are called upon," the statement said. "Our task and our duty now it to prepare for that defense, that American ideals of self-government may not be lost and our peace-loving citizens may never suffer the fate of those innocent peoples whose lands have already been ruthlessly invaded and whose liberty and peace may forever have been destroyed.

"Michigan of all states is most concerned over the unfortunate plight of our friendly neighbor to the north, Canada. Our great cities, Michigan's Detroit and Canada's Windsor, also the Canadian and American cities at the Sault, are as close together as almost any two large cities in the United States. The vast shore line of the Great Lakes necessarily makes the interests of Michigan and Ontario much in common. * * *"

Factories Must Mobilize

Dickinson described Michigan's industrial centers as "the machine shops of America" and referred to Henry Ford's announcement today that his Detroit plants could turn out 1,000 planes a day; to the appointment of William S. Knudsen, president of General Motors, as a leader of the president's defense committee.

Michigan citizens, the governor said, must look for the mobilization of the state's factories and declared "the Great Lakes water transportation system must be kept open and speeded up if necessary. * * *"

Referring to fifth column activities in this state, Dickinson complimented the state police as an agency equipped to deal with that factor. He hinted "it is quite likely that vast additional burdens may be placed upon our department of public safety which will require its enlargement."

The governor pointed also to the strength of the Michigan National Guard as a protection within state borders, and to upwards of 80,000 World war veterans "who are loyal to their country to a man."

Dickinson asked Michigan citizens to "pledge our determination that the heritage which has come to us through death and sacrifice shall not be lightly held nor ever relinquished.

"Let no voice of undue emotion tempt us into an unnecessary slaughter of our youth on foreign soil. We can best serve by being ready, by being unified in our determination that no usurper and no ruthless conquerer will stamp out the liberties of the American people.

"Michigan must be and will be ready," Dickinson ended.

Highway Accident Hazard High Today

Lansing, May 29. (AP)—The state police and highway department geared their staffs today to prevent a recurrence of the Memorial Day traffic accidents which cost Michigan 14 lives last spring.

State troopers started patrolling highways tonight. Concentrating in areas which proved danger spots in the past. All highway department construction projects were closed down to avoid adding to the hazards of motor travel.

The highway department pointed out that an order imposing a 50-mile-an-hour speed limit on US-12 from the Indiana line to Shoreham in Berrien county becomes effective today. On that stretch, a department spokesman said, nine persons lost their lives last year and eight the year before. Police patrols will concentrate on that strip.

The death toll on Memorial Day, 1939, was the highest in several years, state police said. Eight persons are listed as having been killed that day, while six others were fatally hurt during accident of the full week-end.

Tomorrow also marks the formal opening of 56 state parks.

Flooded Lands Guard Retreat Via Dunkerque

One Avenue of Escape Left As Nazis Smash Way to Channel; Next Blitz Push Expected To Be On Paris

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hard-pressed allied forces flooded the canals surrounding Dunkerque, their sole remaining port of escape from Flanders, last night in a desperate effort to block Adolf Hitler's victorious forces dogging their retreat to the sea.

German victory was conceded in the bitterly contested battle of Flanders, lost by the allies as an immediate result of the Belgian army's surrender yesterday.

Hitler In Control

Thus after 19 days of blitzkrieg, Hitler's men in armor were left virtually in control of France's rich and populous northern industrial area, now battered into the ruins of war, and her northwest coast, across from England.

Above the German-conquered French territory the Nazis also were in command of Belgium and The Netherlands, the latter of which gave up after five days of invasion.

By the light of myriad fires blazing across Flanders fields, the allies fought a stubborn rearguard action to cover their retreat.

Waters rose steadily in the canals southwest and northwest of Dunkerque after the sluice gates were opened to thwart the Nazis stalking the half million British and French fighting to escape from the Nazi-forged trap of steel.

Navy Last Resistance

At Dunkerque, the French navy formed the last resistance to the Germans in the north, backed up by allied warplanes pounding the Germans in an effort to save some of the wreckage of Flanders.

Even if the allies succeeded in holding off the Germans for the time being in the Dunkerque area, their grave peril will not be over. Droves of Nazi dive-bombers are poised to blast allied embarkations, and swarms of mosquito torpedo boats, operating from Belgian and Dutch bases, are lurking in the English Channel.

With the Flanders battle ended in favor of the Germans, the allies must now take their stand along their strong southern front, stretching some 200 miles across France along the Aisne and Somme rivers.

Submarine Active Again

Behind the retreating allies in Flanders, the German war machine rolled through the great French industrial city of Lille, Armentieres and Ostend and also blasted the World War battlefield at Ypres.

German submarines, on the prowl again after a period of comparative inactivity, sank three ships off the coast of Spain, including the 3,425-ton Argentine freighter Uruguay. The other victims were the 7,400-ton British tanker Telena and the 5,000-ton French freighter Marie Jose.

King George VI sent this message to the commander-in-chief of the British expeditionary force:

"The hearts of everyone of us at home are with you and your magnificent troops in this hour of peril."

FIFTH COLUMNS BUSY IN STATE

State Police Get About 25 Complaints Daily, Olander Says

Lansing, May 29 (AP)—Oscar G. Olander, state police commissioner, said today his department is receiving an average of 25 complaints a day concerning seditious activities by persons unfriendly to the government.

"We would need 100 trained plainclothes men to keep up with the demand for investigation," he said. "If I had 100 new men, they would be trained for highway patrol duty, and the men they replaced would be placed on plainclothes duty."

Complaints have come from utilities plants, he said, and from others that persons on the premises have made seditious utterances. "We simply can not keep up with the work in investigating them," he declared.

Olander said he had not discussed the complaints with Governor Dickinson, and that he would not do so unless the governor called him to a conference, in view of the fact that Dickinson seems to be aware of conditions.

Argentine Vessel Is Sunk Off Spain

Buenos Aires, May 29 (AP)—The Argentine foreign ministry announced tonight that the Argentine merchantman Uruguay, 3,425 tons, had been torpedoed and sunk off the Spanish coast.

The ship was carrying grain to Ireland, and was reported sunk 100 miles off Cape Villano.

(Two other ships, a British tanker, and a French vessel, were sunk by German submarines off the Spanish northwest coast today.)

Summer Schedules Started By Ferries

Lansing, May 29 (AP)—A normal summer operating schedule for state highway department ferries across the Straits of Mackinac effective June 1 was announced today.

According to the new schedule, ferries will leave Mackinaw City at 2 a. m., 5 a. m. and thereafter at hourly intervals until 11 p. m. Ferries will leave St. Ignace at 12:30 a. m., 3:30 a. m., 5:30 a. m. and at hourly intervals thereafter until 9:30 with a final boat at 11:30 p. m.

TWO BOYS DROWN

Muskegon, Mich., May 29 (AP)—Clarence Van Orman, Jr., 11, fishing off an oil company dock on Muskegon lake today, fell into the water, and his companion, Cecil Veene, 16, leaped in after him in an attempt at rescue. Both drowned.

President Roosevelt prepared to ask congress for $600,000,000 more for the war department to speed the production of airplanes and mechanical equipment.

The house judiciary committee finally approved the Hatch bill to curb political activities by state employes paid with federal funds. The 16-8 endorsement was in contrast with previous action to table it.

The rules committee cleared the way for early house consideration of any unprecedented deportation bill aimed solely at Harry Bridges, west coast CIO leader, while Secretary Perkins defended her administration of the immigration laws.

Sidney Hillman, vice president of the CIO who was named to the national defense commission, was expected to start a move to bring the CIO and AFL together.

Secretary Hull disclosed that the state department is considering a plan to receive Belgian and other war refugees in the United States.

Attorney General Jackson urged congress to require the registration of all firearms in a move aimed at "fifth columns."

GOVERNOR SAYS PACE TOO FAST

Claims Speech Requests Could Break Health of Young Person

Lansing, May 29 (AP)—Governor Dickinson complained to his constituents in an open message today that they are setting a pace for him that would break the health of a much younger person, and served notice that he felt it was time to call a halt.

The governor declared he filled 11 speaking engagements last week that carried him between 1,200 and 1,500 miles, including much night driving. He estimated he spoke to audiences totaling approximately 30,000 persons in that period, and that since he assumed office he has addressed an average of 5,000 persons a week.

No Effect On Health, Yet

"I am told repeatedly that no person, old or young, can meet such conditions without expecting some kind of a break," said his prepared text. He insisted, however, that his health has not suffered, but that the demands upon him interfered with his work.

Consideration of ouster proceedings against Sheriff Thomas C. Wilcox of Wayne County and that County's Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea, Dickinson said, would require most of his time for the next several weeks and that "we are making practically no promises (to make speeches) for weeks to come."

"I am therefore putting unusual emphasis on the request that people withhold these invitations for dates for more than one reason," the governor's message said. "In the first place it is embarrassing to have to decline them. In the second place, it is in the interests of the state and it takes hours to fully explain why these things cannot be met. This alone cuts into state time."

Many Unaware of Strain

Dickinson commented that many persons apparently were unaware of the trouble involved in arranging a work program to make room for a speaking engagement, nor the strain the speech involves.

"We get statements by letter or personally stating that continuous prayer is being made for me for health and strength," he said, adding that frequently the same communications "close with the strong plea for a date."

He suggested that he might be more inclined to accept invitations to speak if interested groups would consolidate their requests, that he might address all of them at a single joint meeting.

Kelly Gets Free Hand To Talk At Governors' Rally

Lansing, May 29 (AP)—Secretary of State Harry F. Kelly will represent Michigan at the national conference of governors at Duluth, Minn., next week—the same gathering against which Governor Dickinson a year ago delivered his famed "high life" blast.

Dickinson said he would like to attend this year's gathering to remove any feeling that he was afraid to confront the governors whose conduct he criticized.

However, he said, the press of business and the condition of his wife's health made it impossible for him to be there.

Dickinson informed Kelly that he was to have a free hand in expressing Michigan's opinion of matters brought before the conference, including state endorsements of the national defense program reportedly asked by President Roosevelt.

BAY CITY QUITS LEAGUE

Bay City, Mich., May 29, (AP)—By eliminating a membership fee from the 1940-1941 municipal budget, city commissioners Wednesday night withdrew Bay City from the Michigan Municipal league. The action was taken over the protests of City Manager J. Harry Nelson and after Commissioner Frank Heath had charged the league was composed of "lobbyists and job holders."

selling themselves dearly, the German army today nevertheless expected the capitulation at any moment of the half million troops fighting a suicide battle in Flanders.

The Germans were reported smashing furiously with hundreds of dive bombers, tanks and massed artillery in an effort to ring down speedily the curtain on the Flanders carnage.

Paris Next Target

The British and French were cut apart in the general vicinity of Lille, the British to the north and the French to the south of that city, their predicament turned to disaster by the sudden surrender yesterday of 300,000 Belgians. Only a miracle Germans said, could prevent their annhilation or capitulation. They spoke of the desirability of a quick allied surrender to end "this futile waste of blood."

OUSTED GENERALS DIE

Rome, May 30 (Thursday), (AP)—Il Popolo D'Italia's correspondent in Bern, Switzerland, reported briefly today that the French generalissimo, Maurice Gustave Gamelin, is "understood to have killed himself following definite instructions of the French high command."

General Corap, who commanded the French 9th army which was overrun in the German break-through at Sedan, the correspondent said, had been executed.

Gamelin was removed from command and replaced by General Maxine Weygand after the Sedan disaster to the French forces.

Then, if wide speculation is borne out, there will be a tremendous push on Paris—not England.

In the main part of the allied triangle, pushed against the channel and blazing Dunkerque, are the men of the British expeditionary force which rushed in 19 days ago to resist the invasion of Belgium.

Refugees Trapped Too

In the broken-off tip of the triangle; south of Lille, stand the Frenchmen who tried to break out of the German trap toward the south, at Valenciennes. Separated from the British, they are reported penned in a segment of 12 square miles. With them are thousands of hapless, homeless refugees.

The German advance sheared off this triangle tip today. Forces fighting from the northeast and southwest met at Lille, taking that city of French industry. The trapped French are below them.

On the sides of the triangle the Germans engulfed the Belgian channel port of Ostend, passed Bruges and reached Dixmude; occupied Langemarck; raised the Swastika over Armentieres, near Lille; broke up a fortified French border position near Cassel through a rearguard attack, and stormed Ypres and Kemmel, of tragic World war memory.

Bitter Toward French

Street fighting was reported in Dunkerque (presumably between the allies and advanced Nazi armored columns).

Dunkerque, the Germans say, has been burning for three days. It remains the only port where it is barely possible to embark British forces.

German speedboats infest the channel waters while the dive-bombing Sutkas plummet down to pick off British ships seeking the coast.

Moreover, the Germans are reported in dispatches from the front to be raining shells into the British from Lille to the sea.

It is admitted, however, that the British are fighting back desperately by several points.

Germany's press has been taking such a bitter turn toward France in recent days, especially as regards the alleged "torture" of Germans prisoners, that it is guessed widely that the end of fighting on the northern front will be followed by a giant drive on Paris.

This would take the place of the long-expected assault on the British Isles, for the time being.

To push on Paris, the Germans must break the new French line on the Somme and Aisne rivers, less than 100 miles north of the capital.

However, German reports say the British air force is continuing to "throw bombs aimlessly" over western Germany.

Precise lists are being compiled of every death and wound from these raids, it was stated, and DNB, the official news agency, added, "England had better watch herself."

BY HENRY C. CASSIDY

Paris, May 29 (AP)—The allies tonight gave up as lost the battle of Flanders and, in a great retreat, opened the flood sluices around Dunkerque to guard their last port of escape on the sea.

The bloody conflict in the north was all but over. The Germans thus, were left substantially in control of France's northern industrial region and her northwest coast, across from England.

At least, however, the battle had given the allies time to build a strong southern front along the Somme and Aisne rivers, for 200 miles across France.

The virtual collapse of the allied cause in Flanders, after the Belgian army's surrender ordered by King Leopold left their flanks laid open—came amid scenes of fire and flood.

Water Rises Steadily

While the waters rose steadily in the vast system of streams around Dunkerque, French divisions fought across the tortured landscape to hold the rear while British troops defended the main points of passage for the main forces seeking the coastline.

The allies brought on the inundation by opening the locks southwest and northeast of Dunkerque, on the great canal that flows by the city and follows the coast for many miles.

In Dunkerque, the last allied resistance was rallied under Vice Admiral Jean Marie Abrial, 61-year-old commander of the port. The allied armies, navies and air forces fought together in an effort to save as much as possible from the wreckage of Flanders.

The retreat was harassed by heavy German fire. Some Belgian units, refusing to lay down their arms despite their king's order to capitulate, were reported still fighting beside the British and French.

A single French division which had been stationed with the Belgians as the backbone of their front tried to hold back the Nazi rush in the Nieuport-Dixmude sector, a World war battlefield on the coast northeast of Dunkerque.

Battlefield Ablaze

Suicide squads also held out on the eastern and southern sides of the allied path to the sea. Some allied units had to fight through German columns.

Dunkerque, manned by French sailors, was the last island of solid allied positions.

The rest of the battlefield was a maelstrom of free-for-all fighting, lighted up by blazing fires.

Airplanes tangled in the heavy clouds hanging over the battle area. Allied navy dive-bombers, using the low-flying tactics they employ against submarines and warships, plunged on German tanks.

American-made bombers, newly arrived, operated effectively, but too late to turn the tide.

Still other battles must be fought on the Ainse-Somme front before the war itself can be called decided.

The Germans made Lille, the industrial center of northern France, and Calais, on the channel Straits of Dover, particular battlegrounds. But their advance was slowed by allied sharpshooters waging guerilla warfare in the fields and fighting in the streets of the cities.

And tonight, toward the vital city of Dunkerque, the bulk of an entrapped army of half a million was backing.

BY DREW MIDDLETON

London, May 29 (AP)—British hurled her air force into mass battle tonight with waves of German fighters and bombers over the vital English channel port of Dunkerque—last back door to safety for the allies' lost battalions in the Flanders death trap.

The fight for air mastery raged on into the twilight of an anxious day for England. These were the highlights:

1—In the Flanders "die-or-surrender" triangle, 500,000 allied veterans under Lord Gort, commander-in-chief of the BEF, fought off repeated German thrusts with "stiff rear guard action" as they pushed doggedly down a narrowing corridor toward the coast.

2—Out of the million and a half men now actually under arms in Britain, half a million, especially equipped for modern mechanized warfare, are ready for action in France. They can join the French on the Somme river line in any gouge into German defenses to ease the pressure on their comrades in Flanders.

3—The war ministry announced the capture of the strategic Arctic iron ore port of Narvik, Norway, held by Germans through a month of fighting.

4—On the home front, Britain extended wartime restrictions to Americans and other neutrals, brought its home defence forces up to 1,500,000 armed men, and heard the grim prophecy that mass invasion might be imminent.

Wife Of Dollfuss To Live In Canada

Ottawa, Ont., May 29, (AP)—Frau, Englebert Dollfuss, widow of the Catholic chancellor of Austria who was slain in attempted Nazi putsch in 1934, has been granted permission to enter Canada and intends to take refuge refuge here, it was learned tonight.

Informed sources said she is "likely to arrive in Canada shortly."

She and her son and daughter went to England in July, 1938, after moving from residence to residence in the Balkans when Adolf Hitler took over Austria in March of that year.

1940 CAMPAIGN WILL BE LONG

Defense and Elections Placed Together In Importance

BL RICHARD L. TURNER

Washington, May 29 (AP)—Regardless of wars and crisis, the 1940 campaign apparently is to continue to be its old, recognizable knock-down and drag-out self.

The third term issue and the question of unification for the defense program were placed side by side this week, and that conclusion was obvious.

"Coalition Cabinet" Rumored

First of all, word got about that President Roosevelt was thinking of installing a "coalition cabinet" in which Republicans would sit, to direct the arming of the nation.

Republican leaders, therefore silent lest the dread accusation of playing politics with defense should be raised against them, became vocal—publicly. A lot more was said in private.

So long as the third term issue was still alive, they frankly suspected a trap. They feared that to enter into any sort of coalition arrangement would be, in effect, to support the third term movement.

Republicans Meet Roosevelt

Senator Taft, Wendell Willkie and Frank Gannett had their say in public addresses. Then Alf M. Landon came to town. He lunched with President Roosevelt and later issued a statement outlining, as the titular leader of the party, the terms upon which Republicans—he used the plural—would participate.

The only condition on which they would come in, he said, was an immediate statement from Mr. Roosevelt renouncing any third term intentions.

No Replacements Expected

There never was any direct confirmation of the story that Mr. Roosevelt as contemplating a "coalition cabinet", but it was widely believed that some overtures had been made. Toward the end of the week, high administration men said that while Mr. Roosevelt expected to bring certain people into the government to help with the defense job, they would not replace any present officials.

"There ain't going to be any such thing as a coalition cabinet and there never was to be," one official said.

Plans Made for Industry

Industrial planning— in cooperation with industrialists—seems to be the kep to the defense situation, to judge by the conversations and statements of the week. To do the job industry has simply got to be geared up into what some are calling "blitz-production".

It is one thing—and this assertion was made repeatedly—to appropriate funds for planes and arms: but as things now stand quite another problem to get from American industry the things which the money is intended to buy.

Cooks News

Teachers Honored

Cooks, Mich.—The Misses Marie Hartman and Marie Archambeau, teachers at the Dodge and Aldrich schools, were honored at a party given for them by friends Friday evening at the Dodge school. Dancing was the main entertainment of the evening at the close of which lunch was served. Miss Hartman and Miss Archambeau, who will resume their studies at N.S.T.C. Marquette next fall, each received a beautiful remembrance which was representative of all those present.

Congratulations

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Parrish are the parents of a girl, born at the Shaw hospital, Manistique, Friday morning.

Summer Resort Center Also Industrial Town

BY FRED VAN DEVENDER

Grand Haven, Mich., May 29 (AP)—Almost two million people used Grand Haven's big sandy beach last summer . . . more than 10,000 persons spend regular summer vacations in and around Grand Haven . . . there is every facility here for vacationing—fishing, swimming and boating . . .

But Grand Haven is, and likes to be known as, an industrial town.

Signs Play Up Beach

For miles up and down the roads which lead in and out of this western Michigan lake port city, there are signs calling attention to Grand Haven as a resort center. Even in the city, there are signs directing the visitor to the oval beach, state park at the western edge of this city.

Rising majestically at the west end of the town's main street is a huge sand dune which moves perceptibly eastward, encroaching on the channel of the Grand River, which for more than a century has been the reason for Grand Haven's existence.

River Is Wealth Source

From the time Rix Robinson founded this town in 1821 at the mouth of the Grand River, that stream which winds northward and eastward from Grand Haven into the hinterlands of Michigan, has been the source of Grand Haven's wealth, just as it is today.

Rix Robinson was a fur trader, and the Grand offered easy access into the interior. When the lumber boom followed its couse westward from Saginaw, the Grand River was used to float logs to the big lake, and Grand Haven with its natural harbor facilities became an important shipping center on Lake Michigan. With the end of the lumber boom, Grand Haven brought factories to the city, attracting them with accounts of the excellent harbor facilities and cheap water shipping.

New Water Route for Oil

Now, Grand Haven is developing further its Grand River and harbor facilities by attracting distribution headquarters for oil companies, who use the cheap water routes for transport of their products for eventual consumption by western Michigan.

Except for its profusion of celery beds at both the northern and southern edges of this town of some 10,000 persons, agriculture plays but a very minor part. Grand Haven claims the largest beach in the world and the sand which covers that beach so deep that in the spring and fall it is necessary to erect fences to keep it from drifting. Tractors are used now to smooth down the hills of sand which are windrowed by the terrific gales which sometimes sweep in from the Lake.

Residents Own Homes

Home owners—and most houses in Grand Haven are occupied by their owners—must build their yards with clay and black dirt hauled into the town in order to grow grass and flowers. But they do this to such an extent that a visitor driving down the residential streets is unaware that the city actually is built largely on sand.

Grand Haven is and likes to be known as an industrial community. The city spends a large amount of money every year to extoll to manufacturers in other cities the advantages of Grand Haven. The result is that in a city of 10,000, there are 35 factories, employing some 3,000 persons. The factories make a variety of products from leather to pianos, including printing machinery, children's play suits, tools and dies, brass and grey iron foundings, soda fountains, gloves, boilers, and novelties made of wood.

Worker and Employers Intermingle

There is but little difference in the residential districts occupied by workers and employers. The employers' homes are perhaps a little newer, a little larger, but both are well kept and clean. There is no class distinction between worker and employer in their social relations. For instance, the County Club has many members among the laboring class, and the club keeps its membership fee low enough that a machinist may have the same advantages there with the doctor, lawyer, and banker. And he takes advantage of these facilities. It is not unusual to see the manager of a large plant, in shirt sleeves, talking with an employe on the street corner in front of one of the banks—banks, incidentally, which did not close during any of the depression except, of course, during the banking holiday.

Grand Haven's economic condition is not confined alone to its banks which didn't close. Out of a population of 10,000, there are only 77 persons on relief, and the city claims that as a record.

Dutch Ancestry Shows

The city is 85 per cent of Dutch ancestry, as is most of Ottawa county of which the town is the county seat. Other towns in the county include Holland and Zeeland, both of which are predominantly of ancestry from the Netherlands. It is the sort of town in which surnames preceded by "Van" surpass the numbers of Smiths and Joneses in the telephone directory.

And the thrifty, cleanly Dutch make it a typical Dutch community in a town which is physically typical American.

Great Growth Since Charter

Grand Haven was granted a city charter in 1867, and continued to grow during the lumbering era until the latter part of the eighties when the population began to dwindle. Then, most of the business district was wiped out by a fire in 1889. The Cutler House, residences and churches were wiped out, but they were rebuilt and in 1900, the business men of the town bonded themselves for $200,000 which was to be used to transform Grand Haven into an industrial city.

Although Rix Robinson founded the town by establishing a trading post here in 1821, it was not until 1834 that it actually was settled by a party under the leadership of the Rev. William M. Ferry, a missionary, which landed here by ship.

For scores of years thereafter the Ferry family was prominent in the life of the city and counted among its descendents Senator Thomas White Ferry, a son of the missionary. It was Senator Ferry, who, in 1876 was president pro tempore of the senate. Vice president Henry Wilson having died in 1875, and President Grant's term having expired at midnight of March 3, Senator Ferry was claimed by some to have been the president from that time until March 5, when President Hayes took office. March 4 in that year was on Sunday.

President Is Executive Chairman

William H. Loutit, son of a pioneer lumberman and mayor of Grand Haven for five years, has been executive chairman of the Michigan Conservation Department for eight years and is generally credited with much of the work of preserving the state's wild life.

Grand Haven has a municipal power, light and water plant, a filtration plant and with the aid of the Civilian Conservation Corps is now working on an extensive planting plan designed to prevent the movement of the sand dunes surrounding the city.

DEFENSE FUND ESTIMATES UP 750 MILLIONS

Capitol unveiling a painting of the signing of the Constitution.

Tax Bill Drafted

"We should all be immeasureably happier," Mr. Roosevelt said, "could this ceremony take place in another kind of world—in a tranquil world where men and nations alike were fre to seek out peacefully their individual destinies.

"But, tragically, the condition of the world is vastly different. Beyond the seas, the way of life so brilliantly outlined in the document that we salute today is under attack by force of arms unprecedented in human history."

Meanwhile, Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the house ways and means committee drafted the new defense tax bill, with the intention of introducing it tomorrow and beginning brief hearings with a statement from Secretary Morgenthau on Friday. In doing so, he reduced his estimate of the bill's annual yield from $683,000,000 to $656,000,00.

Purchasing Agent Named

Supplementing the commission on national defense named yesterday to coordinate the industrial production necessary to the defense program, President Roosevelt during the day named Donald M. Nelson of the Sears-Roebuck Co., to the post of procurement director at the treasury, a job which in many respects is the equivalent of chief purchasing agent for the government. With the post goes also the chairmanship of a committee created to coordinate foreign and domestic aircraft purchases.

The commission itself, including two top-notch industrialists, Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., chairman of United States Steel, and William S. Knudsen, president of General Motors, was scheduled to hold its first meeting tomorrow at the White House. Mr. Roosevelt asked congress today for $1,000,000 immediately to finance the commission's work.

PAYANT STORE HIT

Iron Mountain — Lightning striking the store of Vital Payant in East Kingsford at about 3:15 p. m., yesterday caused considerable damage.

The telephone and lights were blown out; the chimney—from roof to basement—was partly wrecked; plaster was ripped from the walls around the chimney on the first and second floors and all but three windows in the second floor were shattered.

NEW RULES SET ON WPA WORK

Bean and Aronson Hear New Plans Outlined In Lansing

New WPA regulations to become effective probably with the opening of the new government fiscal year July 1 were outlined at a meeting of sponsors in Lansing Monday and Tuesday, attended by City Manager George E. Bean and City Engineer Arthur V. Aronson.

Among the chief suggested changes, with other changes still possible before final orders are given, was a plan to divide large projects into units, which local officials thought might add to the complications of administration.

Another suggested change, however, for modification of the "P" forms, including the "P-9" forms for original estimates on jobs, and the "P-10" forms for assignment of workers, probably will simplify that part of the work, the local officials thought.

About 125 sponsors were represented at the meeting, with about a third of the total from the Upper Peninsula, Mr. Aronson reported.

Philatelic Society Plans Annual Meet On Sunday Evening

The annual meeting of the Escanaba Philatelic society, to be held on Sunday evening will be featured by a banquet at 6 o'clock at Belle's Coffee shop, followed by a program.

Arrangements for the affair are in charge of Mrs. W. J. Anthony and Earl Brown. Guests at the meeting who will take part in the program will be O. A. Olson of Green Bay and two or three other well-known stamp collectors from the stamp collectors organizations in the Green Bay area.

Local stamp collectors who are planning to attend the event have been requested to call Mrs. Anthony, phone 1282, or Earl Brown, phone 1047, by Saturday.

Police Chiefs End School Here; Wait Grades In 2 Weeks

Police chiefs from five cities in this locality finished a course in police administration yesterday at the city hall after a year of class discussions every two weeks, with Michael F. Ettenhofer, Escanaba chief, in charge.

The lesson was on "Relations of Individual Police Departments with Other Police and Identification Units." The pupils for the last meeting were Henry King, Kingsford chief; Gust Hassell, Iron Mountain chief; Curly May, Gladstone; Frank Parsek, Menominee chief; Chief Ettenhofer, Assistant Chief Jack Finn and Sergeant Phil Bruce of the Escanaba force.

Everybody expected to get a good mark in the course, but results will not be known until another session in two weeks, when the students will gather to review their "merit marks" for the year's work. The state's Municipal Police Administration service grades the work.

Mercury Registers Record 71; Thirsty Boys Get Lecture

Maybe it's because the weather is getting warmer all of a sudden after the long, cold spring and a fellow feels the need for something to slake his thirst now and then that five boys got a reprimand yesterday afternoon from police.

They were charged with having taken a caseof soda pop from a truck of Melvin Carlson in the yard at 1718 First avenue south. Police recovered the case and 20 empty bottles out of the 24 that were missing.

The thermometer set a season's record yesterday with a 71 reading in mid-afternoon, the highest since September 21, when the reading was 74. It was still 63 at 7:30 o'clock last night.

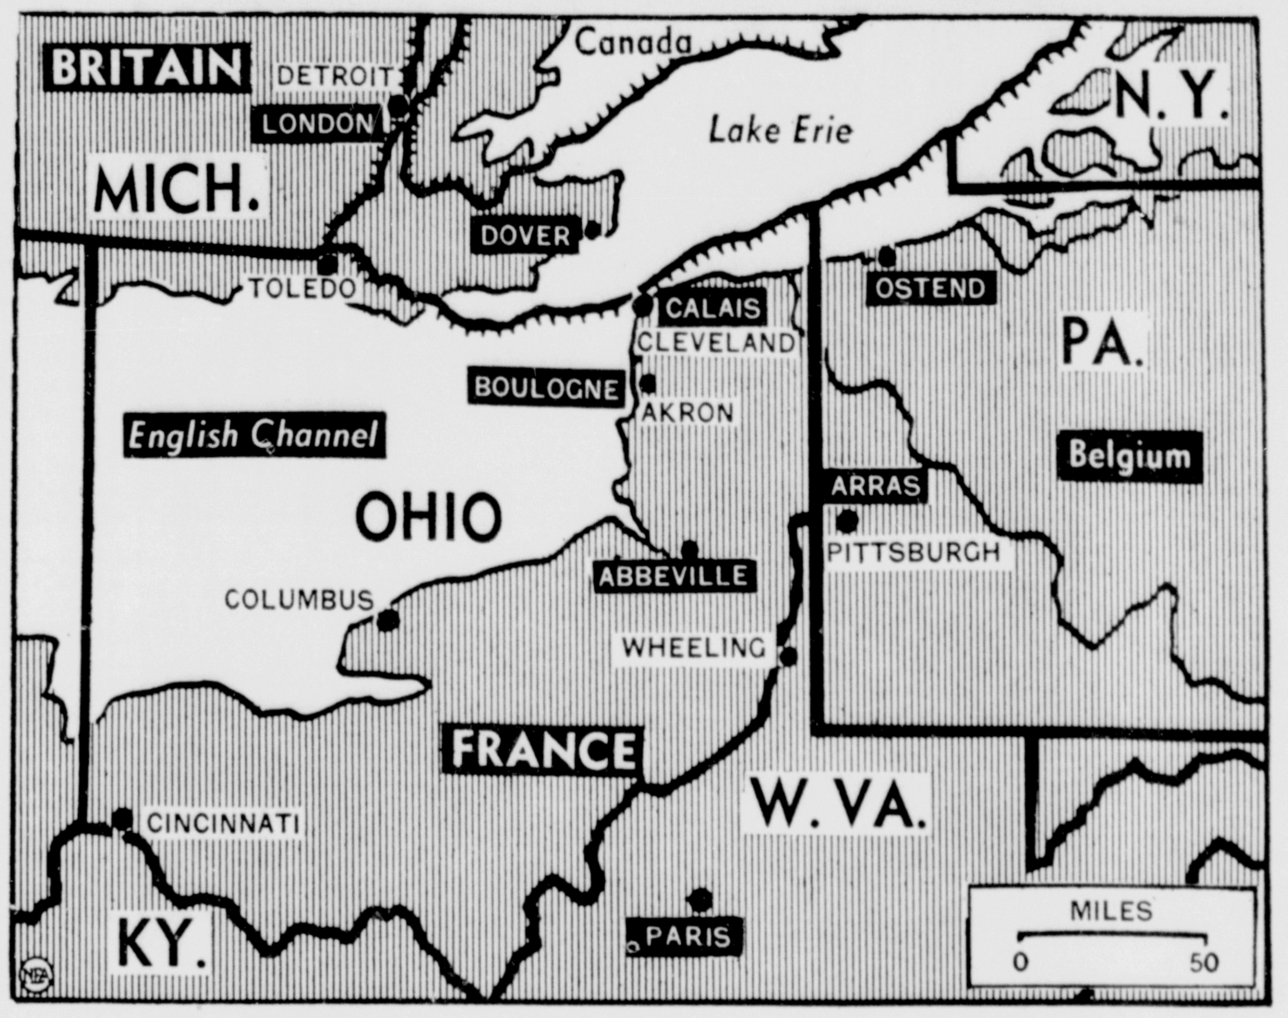
Here's How Close London Is to Bombers



Map brings home to Americans the nearby threat to London resulting from German occupation of French channel ports. Bold outlines show states in the Detroit-Cleveland area drawn same scale as the shaded portions of Britain and France. American names are black on white, European points white on black. Germans are in Boulogne. If they can establish air bases there they will have their bombers at what would be Akron in relation to Detroit. Germans claim Calais, which would put them at point corresponding to Cleveland.

State Political Gossip

Democratic Leaders Will Bid Heavily for Vote of Labor

BY GUY H. JENKINS
(Grand Rapids Press)

Lansing — Democratic party leaders are making great plans to corral Michigan's labor vote for the next election. Preliminary plans for the state convention in Flint June 15 indicate a strong bid for this group.

Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York, whose name appears on much of the New Deal labor legislation and some of the social security program, is expected to be the speaker at the preconvention dinner.

For the convention Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana will be guest of honor. He may be invited to address the convention briefly. Wheeler, a graduate of the University of Michigan law school, is to receive an honorary doctor of laws degree from the university the previous day.

Wheeler is one of the leading candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination in the event that President Roosevelt does not seek a third term. When the United Mine Workers of America had their national convention some months ago at Columbus, Ohio, Wheeler was the only politico invited by John L. Lewis, national president, to address the delegates.

Some of the Washington news writers decided that the Lewis invitation was the death kiss for Wheeler, because it was at that time that the shaggy-haired labor leader and President Roosevelt had thier public flareup. Just how Lewis' pat on Wheeler's back could have any different results than an indorsement for Mr. Roosevelt would have never was explained by the national capitol experts.

FIGHT DELEGATES-AT-LARGE MAY BE SENT BY STATE

The state convention will elect 38 delegates to the national convention in Chicago July 15. It may or may not be an instructed delegation.

Several Wayne county district conventions have gone through the motions of electing delegates and alternates to the national convention. This is not in harmony with the program. The state convention will elect the 38 delegates. The congressional district will recommend candidates, but that is the limit of their authority. Naturally the recommendations will have consideration but the actual job of electing them belongs to the state convention.

Sentiment is growing for the election of eight delegates-at-large, each with half a vote. If the convention approves the plan the places on the delegation will be divided equally between men and the women. The men slated as delegates-at-large are Edmund C. Shields, national committeeman; Charles S. Porritt, state chairman; United States Senator Prentiss M. Brown and Murray D. VanWagoner, highway commissioner. Two of the women delegates probably will be Mrs. Clara VanAuken, national committeewoman, and Mrs. Roscoe McDonald Huston.

According to the leaders the organization Democrats are for the president if he decides to run, but if not then they want to be ready to get aboard the winner's bandwagon. Because of that possibility they don't want an instructed delegation.

It seems the Democrats who were for Roosevelt before the 1932 Chicago convention always have had a more cheerful welcome in Washington than the boys who lined up for the other candidates. Political operations will be no different this time. Of course there always is that chance that the bosses guess wrong but then, too, they may be right. If they are and the party wins the national and state elections, the Democratic governor, VanWagoner, for example, would be very welcome when he appeared in Washington.

STILL SEEKING GOOD SENATE CANDIDATE

As plans for the convention go forward, the question of an outstanding candidate for nomination for the United States senate remains unanswered.

There is the possibility that the choice rests between Federal Judge Frank A. Picard, George J. Burke and Frank Couzens. When James A. Farley, postmaster general, was in Michigan recently the political tin hats held a heavy conference with him. They discussed particularly the need of an A-1 senatorial candidate. While no definite word came out of the Farley conference it is reported he was asked to apply the pressure to one of the three.

These delightful spring days have caused several political campaigns to blossom like the lilacs and violets. Apparently both major parties are going to the starting line with a host of candidates for the lieutenant governor nomination, and, unless something is done to squelch self-starters who only would muddy the political waters, the Republican ticket will carry a host of candidates in opposition to Gov. Dickinson.

On the Democratic side of the fence efforts are being made to convince Theodore I. Fry to run for lieutenant governor. For several months now there has been a lot of talk about Fry running for governor or the United States senate. Fry, many concede, would add a lot of strength to the ticket. In his three successful campaigns for state treasurer he demonstrated excellent vote-getting ability.

Because of his present industrial work with the Reo Motor Car Co. some believe that the deadline for qualifying for the primary will pass and there will be no indication of Fry's willingness to return to the political arena. Later on, when the fall convention meets to select the other candidates for state office, Fry may get the nod for the state treasurer nomination.

MANY WANT JOB AS LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR

The second place on the ticket, which is decided in the party primary, will not be limited to one or two candidates, according to present indications. Don W. Canfield, former secretary of the senate and secretary of the state central committee, has announced that he will run for lieutenant governor. Also a candidate is Anthony J. Wilkowski of Detroit, former state senator. He was one of a group of Democrats who served a prison sentence for his part in the vote fraud scandals of 1934.

Others mentioned as p ssible starters are Leo J. Nowicki, former lieutenant governor; Senator David M. Martin of Flint; Ernest C. Brooks of Holland and J. Neil Lamoreaux of Comstock Park, former state senators; Representative William G. Buckley and George R. Schroeder, both of Detroit. Schroeder is former speaker of the house of representatives.

It would be a little indelicate to identify those in the list who would be unwelcome on the ticket if Van Wagoner is the party's gubernatorial candidate.

The Republican gubernatorial primary is to provide the voters a wide range of candidates and as more of them qualify the easier it becomes for Gov Dickinson. In fact, he welcomes anyone who has any notion he can finish first.

There were times when the bosses ganged up on Dickinson in an attempt to knock him out of the lieutenant governorship. They tried it with a single starter and with Dickinson in a field. The results usually have been the same—Dickinson finished first. Probably some of the boys have decided there is something to the story that the pitcher can go to the well once too often and this may be the year to oppose Dickinson.

AMBITIONS OF CONLON WERE MINIMIZED

As the primary list increases, Thomas Read, attorney general, and Miller Dunckel, state treasurer, are champing at the bits. They have just about convinced themselves there is a terrific demand for their leadership. Later on they may decide that if the Republican convention next September renominates them for second terms they will be happy about the whole thing.

It seems certain that Dickinson will have a lot of company on the primary ballot. The list has been increased by one with nominating petitions in circulation to qualify Ernest T. Conlon of Grand Rapids, former state senator.

Some months ago when Conlon's pet organization, the Chamber of Commerce of Michigan, launched its tax program it was reported that Conlon would use it as a springboard to reach the office of lieutenant governor. An injustice was done. Conlon is minimizing his ambitions. It never occurred to this department he was training his sights on the executive office.

Qualifying petitions are also being circulated for Melville B. McPherson, state tax commission chairman; O. L. Smith, Detroit lawyer; Charles Renaud of Detroit and the governor.

Senate Club Picks Officers For Year

Members of the Escanaba senior high school Senate club held an election of officers for the coming year in the school last evening.

Newly elected officers are: President, Mary Alice Froberg; vice president, Elinor Sharpensteen; secretary, Barbara Defnet; and treasurer, Bill Cary.

Outgoing officers are: President, Rosemary LaCrosse; vice president, Bob Sattem; secretary, Pauline Stegath; and treasurer, Don Baum.

The club is run in the form of a debate society in order to give experience in speaking to more of the students of the high school. During the year an attempt is made to cover every branch of speech work that may be of some help; such as, impromptu speeches, informal discussions, mock debates and mock trials.

At the beginning of each year those interested in belonging to the club hand in their name and a vote is taken by the teachers to pick a representative group for membership. An initiation is held at an appointed time and each new member is formally made a member of the Senate club.

Advisor for this club is Bertrand Henne, debate squad coach and sophomore Latin and English teacher at the senior high school.

DAVID ARONSON PASSES AWAY

Heart Attack Fatal to Retired Conductor of C&NW Road

David Aronson, 77, retired Chicago and Northwestern railroad conductor, passed away suddenly at his home at Soo Hill about 6:30 o'clock yesterday morning, death being due to a heart attack.

Mr. Aronson had been in good health and arose as usual yesterday morning to go about his chores on the berry farm he had operated for 27 years. While sitting in the kitchen, he was seized with the heart attack and passed away quickly.

The deceased was born December 17, 1862 in New York and had been a resident of Delta county for more than 30 years. He was a member of the North Star lodge of this city.

He is survived by his wife; one son, David; and two brothers, P. A. and Frank W. Aronson of this city.

The body was taken to the Anderson funeral home in this city to be prepared for burial and will lie in state there beginning this afternoon. Funeral services will be conducted by Rev. Carl E. Berger at the funeral home Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Burial will be in Lakeview cemetery.

BILL TO BRING $9,000 PUSHED

Colmer-Harrison Proposal Would Give Aid to Counties

Passage of the Colmer-Harrison bill, now pending in congress, would provide nearly $9,000 a year income for Delta county, County Treasurer Ralph R. Olsen reported yesterday following a meeting in Ironwood Tuesday of county representatives from Northern Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota for a discussion of the bill.

Of Delta county's 409,959 acres of land, 155,177 acres have been purchased by the national government, most of this being in the Hiawatha National forest. The total purchase price was $299,732.59. On this valuation, the county receives no taxes.

The Colmer-Harrison bill would provide income of three per cent of the purchase price per year for the county, this payment to be forwarded by the government against money that might be received later from the sale of forest products on the federal lands. Twenty-five per cent of such funds, under the present law, are due the county when sales are made.

Both Mr. Olson and Ole J. Thorsen, chairman of the county board of supervisors, attended the Ironwood meeting. Sixty persons were present. The meeting named a committee to work for reforestation and conservation in the three states.

Although many acres of land have gone over to the state conservation department recently for non-payment of taxes, the counties receive 10 cents an acre per year on these for use of townships and schools, Mr. Olsen pointed out.

Police Bear Down To Finish Annual Campiagn On Dogs

Dog catchers were still on the job yesterday as police planned to close the annual spring license drive within a week and urged all pup owners to get their tags.

The drive, started nearly a month ago, has resulted in new tags for nearly 100 pets, many of the purchases having been made after dogs had been caught and locked up. Only half a dozen dogs have gone unclaimed and met their end in a gas exterminating chamber.

Persons who don't get licenses may be arrested later for harboring unlicensed dogs, a fineable offense, police said.

Delta County Has 1,433 Increase In Population

An increase in population of 1,433 persons in the past ten years is revealed in statistics issued yesterday by John C. Daly, supervisor of census.

The county's population on April 1 of this year has been unofficially set at 33,713 as compared with 32,280 for the corresponding period in 1930. These figures are unofficial and may change upon final tabulation at Washington.

Daly said yesterday that he was not allowed to give the population by townships although figures on population of Escanaba and Gladstone had been given previously. Escanaba showed a slight increase and Gladstone a decrease so a majority of the population growth took place in the townships.

In spite of the fact that this population increase took place in the outlying districts, there was a sharp drop in the number of farms in the county. This year's count of farms totalled 1,393 as compared with 1,554 on January 1, 1935. In 1930, there were 1,379 farms in the county. There are 14 farms listed in the city limits of Escanaba as compared with 24 in 1935 and 12 in 1930.

Business To Halt As City Honors War Dead

Escanaba stores, the city hall and courthouse, public schools, the public library and the postoffice as well as other public and private enterprises will be closed today as the city pays homage to it's war dead in Memorial Day rites.

Twenty four units are scheduled to take part in a parade along Ludington street shortly after 9 o'clock this morning, with the march to end at Ludington park band stand for a patriotic program, with the chief address to be given by the Rev. Fr. F. A. Seifert, of Powers, World war chaplain and widely traveled priest.

Form At Junior High

The American Legion and Auxiliary, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Spanish-American War veterans, the National Guard unit and other patriotic groups as well as labor organizations will take part in the parade and program.

All units of the parade will meet at the Junior high school at 9 o'clock. Two police officers will lead the parade with the National Guard company next in line, followed by the Escanaba City band and the American Legion, preceded by a color guard.

Following in order in the line of march will be a Gold Star Mothers car, Boy Scouts, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Spanish-American war veterans, Senior high school band, Knights of Columbus, Escanaba Commandery Knights Templar, twenty army trucks, American Legion auxiliary; Disabled Veterans, the city manager and city commissioners, WPA band, recreational center workers and representatives, Townsend club, Paper Makers union, Lions club, Kiwanis club, Teamsters, Stablemen, Chauffeurs and Helpers union, and various other unions and civic groups.

Groups to Have Rites

The ceremony at the park will begin with a flag raising, with the city band to play "The Star Spangled Banner" as the National Guard in company formation presents arms as the colors are raised.

Ed Moersch will be the program at the speakers stand with the reading of the American Legion ritual. The Rev. Carl E. Berger of the First Presbyterian church will offer prayer and the city band will play "Nearer My God to Thee." The speaker's stand will be equipped with amplifiers.

Fred Cram will read General Logan's Order and Bob Beaudoin, Escanaba high school senior and well-known speaker, will recite "In Flander's Fields." Mr. Cram will lead a Spanish-American veterans' ritual and Mrs. Schmeltzer will lead an American Legion Auxiliary ritual, while Mr. Kallio will have charge of the Veterans of Foreign Wars memorial.

Briton W. Hall, accompanied by Willard Clark, will sing a solo, "God Bless America," and Rev. Fr. Seifert's address will follow.

A salute to those who died in sea service will be fired over the waters of the bay at the conclusion of the program.

ASKS DRIVERS TO HELP

Police Chief Michael F. Ettenhofer yesterday requested motorists not to park along Ludington street between 9 and 10 o'clock this morning as a measure toward safety and also to give spectators a better view of the parade. Also, the chief said, motorists will not be allowed to block Eleventh street, which is to be kept open as a fire lane.

Sisters to Hold Religious School At Grand Marais

Grand Marais, Mich.—It has been announced here by Father Joseph Gondek of Newberry that two Sisters of Notre Dame will arrive in Grand Marais Saturday, June 1. They will reside in the little Soldonski house across from Holy Rosary church and will conduct a summer school in religion and religious training for the children of Grand Marais.

As on a previous occasion some eight years ago this summer school will be held daily at Holy Rosary church and will be open to Catholic and non-Catholic children alike. So far 63 children have been enrolled besides 16 high school students who will come for one class daily. There will also be a number of children from Seney attending.

Holy Rosary Services

This Sunday the mass at Holy Rosary church will be at eight o'clock. It is the men's regular monthly communion Sunday. All children who will attend the summer school will come to the church to meet the sisters on Saturday evening at 7 o'clock. The sisters will then take charge of them for the next three weeks. Confessions will be heard Saturday evening as usual.

Chest Clinics Are Scheduled For Next Week

The Michigan Tuberculosis association will conduct chest X-ray clinics next week for Alger and Schoolcraft counties. Dr. E. J. Brenner, health director for both counties, has made arrangements for these clinics which will be held in Manistique on June 6, and Munising on June 7.

Supported by the annual sale of Christmas seals the association makes possible such clinics in an effort to help discover early cases of tuberculosis.

CHARGED WITH PANTS THEFT

Norway Man Held for Entering Clothing Store Here

Harry Nelson of Norway, arrested in a make-shift shelter in the Chicago & North Western railway yards here by the sheriff's department, pleaded not guilty when arraigned in justice of the peace court yesterday on a charge of breaking and entering in the night time. He is charged with the entry of the F. & G. Clothing store here May 17. Hearing was set for next Wednesday.

A pane of glass was carefully removed from a second story window in the entry and through a hole in an inside wood covering for the window, 20 pairs of woolen trousers were taken, according to the police report. The 20 pairs of pants had a retail value of about $80.

Merrill Gibbs, 1613 Second avenue north, driver of the car which allegedly figured indirectly in an accident Monday night in which Jackie Holmes, 1321 First avenue north, was injured pleaded not guilty yesterday to failing to observe a stop sign. His hearing was set for Friday afternoon.

Kipling News

Kipling, Mich.—Mrs. W. Cordes and Mr. and Mrs. George Bergeon of Milwaukee, Wis. are spending a week visiting their mother, Mrs. Agnes Bergeon, who returned Saturday from St. Francis hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Tellis Bergeon and sons, of Iron Mountain, also spent the week-end with Mrs. Bergeon.

Mr. and Mrs. James Dean and sons Richard and James, of Munising, spent Sunday at the Norman Harris home.

The eighth grade graduating exercises held at the town hall Thursday evening were well attended. Miss Mary Teusink, principal of the Barr school, Escanaba, gave an interesting talk. Rev. Fr. Schaul of Gladstone also talked briefly. The WPA concert orchestra, under the direction of Cecil Collins, furnished the music. Walter Van De Weghe presented the diplomas to the fourteen graduates.

A picnic was enjoyed by the school children at Lamberg's Grove at Days River Wednesday. Games and contests were the entertainment for the day. Mrs. Gunnar Holmberg and Mrs. Walter Van De Weghe won first prize in the treasure hunt. Ice cream was furnished by the P. T. A.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Cole and family will move this week into the house which they have purchased from the Nebel brothers and which was formerly occupied by the William Hill family.

Curtis News

Curtis, Mich.—Mr. and Mrs. Ned Gleason have returned home after a few days spent near Biteley, Mich.

Mr. Wm. Anderson, of the State Highway Department, was recently transferred to Trenary. He returned to Curtis Saturday night and moved his family away Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Goodreau of Rexton were visitors Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Delmer Humphrey.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Bay have returned to Curtis after a prolonged stay at Ottawa Lake in Lower Michigan.

The first team of the Curtis ball players were victorious over the Rexton team Sunday afternoon on the Curtis field. The score was 2 to 0.

The Curtis second baseball team played the Gulliver team with a score of 8 to 3 in favor of the Gulliver team.

Apparently You Are Never Too Late-

in using SOIL MANNA to good advantage. The late George Dutton bought his first bag of SOIL MANNA on a 28th of July. Thinking this rather late in season to spade in and derive some benefit from its use that season, Mr. Dutton dumped the half of his SOIL MANNA into a barrel which he kept in his garden—filled same with water, let stand for 5 days while stirring all from the bottom up with a board. This solution Mr. Dutton poured to cabbage plants and dahlias which he had planted on the 4th of July—also on some tomato plants. A friend of his being present when Mr. Dutton done this late planting said to him "do you know that this is the 4th of July, George, you might as well throw these plants in the alley than to plant them this late." Following Labor Day, Mr. Dutton's transplanted cabbage weighed from 4 to 5 pounds each—all solid heads—the transplanted dahlias were within 6 inches as tall as those which he had planted in the spring and had 2 full grown flowers besides many buds. The tomatoes which Mr. Dutton watered with his SOIL MANNA solution were doubled the size which he did not water that way. No wonder Mr. Dutton told me that he would gladly pay $10 for a 100 pound bag of SOIL MANNA before he would ever again pay $6 for a hundred pound bag of commercial fertilizer as he had done quite often. Mr. Dutton had gotten jealous because his neighbor had a far better garden than he had. When he found out that SOIL MANNA had beaten him in the neighbor's garden it did not take him long to get an introduction to this natural product. Mr. Dutton learned a lot and we learned from Mr. Dutton that in water-diluted SOIL MANNA is extremely hard to beat when it comes to forcing plant life. Should your flowers, shrubs, lawns and gardens respond most pleasantly when forced the Dutton way you will owe this prescription to a departed friend who loved his garden as none dare love it better. When solution is all used up refill barrel with water, let stand, stir, pour and refill as long as solution will show a milky color. And all for a $1 per 100 pound bag at your

C. of C. Will Help

WITH the appointment of Harold P. Lindsay as manager of the Upper Peninsula State Fair, the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce is given the responsibility, as well as the opportunity, for making the exposition an outstanding success.

It may be that Escanaba has been inclined to look upon the fair as a state institution, which would function satisfactorily without the local community's having to give more than ordinary cooperation. Under the new arrangement, the membership of Escanaba Chamber of Commerce and other citizens should have a more active interest and gain a deeper appreciation of the value of the state fair to this region.

The facilities and personnel of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce can be used advantageously for promoting the Upper Peninsula State Fair in the efficient and effective manner that other special events have been staged here. The Chamber of Commerce has demonstrated on numerous occasions in the past that it is vitally interested in the development of the Upper Peninsula agriculture, and may be expected, under Secretary Lindsay's leadership, to make the state fair everything that its founders intended it to be.

Career Man Named

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT has selected a career man in the diplomatic service to serve as minister to Canada in place of James H. R. Cromwell, who has resigned to run for senator in New Jersey.

The new minister is Jay Pierrepont Moffat, a descendant of the country's first secretary of state and one of the important members of Secretary Hull's staff. With this appointment, the president is correcting the mistake of giving diplomatic appointments as rewards for political campaign contributions or in expectation of them. The husband of Doris Duke, tobacco heiress, had no particular training for the diplomatic service, a fact which was revealed during his brief service at Ottawa.

With events abroad developing as rapidly as they are, Ottawa promises to be an important diplomatic post in the future. Appointment of Moffat will give the United States more dependable and intelligent representation there. The displacement of other "money-bag" diplomats elsewhere by careerists in the service would be to our nation's best interests.

Ersatz for the U. S. A.

IT is heartening to see what progress is being made in potential production of "ersatz" products in the United States against some emergency that we do not now foresee.

The United States would prefer to buy natural rubber in a free world market. It would prefer to import natural quinine and tin from those places which produce them naturally and cheaply.

Nevertheless it is good to know that if that kind of a world proves impossible the United States would not be entirely helpless. The War and Commerce departments have been canvassing this situation, and their findings are reassuring. Neoprene, Triakol, and Buna, three substitutes for rubber, can all be produced inside the country now. So can synthetic quinine and iodine. Tin substitutes are rapidly being developed.

All these would probably be more expensive than the natural product. But it is reassuring to know that they would be available in a situation in which price or production cost would be subordinated to necessity.

Defending Alaska

IT comes as something of a shock to hear General Marshall, chief of staff, urging immediate enlistment of National Guard units in Alaska.

The shock is not from the suggestion. It is from the fact that it was not done long ago.

Alaska's population is about 60,000—half of them Indians, Aleuts and Eskimos. There are fine harbors there, fine air bases. And Anchorage is just under five hours' bombing time from the Pacific northwest.

The Army and Navy are developing strong fleet and air bases in Alaska. These are to be further strengthened. But it is certainly a minimum defense plan to organize National Guard units in every place where population will support them, the federal government prociding the armories and equipment usually furnished by the states.

President Roosevelt is quite right in saying that it is not a sound defense policy to fortify the actual frontier and wait. The approaches which might be used by potential attackers must also be secured. England knows that now, to her cost.

So it implies no jingoism to insist that Alaska be as well protected as it is possible to make it. For it lies on the direct air road to North America across the top of the world.

The parachute technique, by which an airport is first unexpectedly bombed to prevent its own planes from fighting back, and then quickly captured by heavily-armed troops dropping from the sky, was well demonstrated in Norway. Even a few companies of well-armed National Guardsmen might be of infinite help in a situation like this. So elementary a precaution must no longer be neglected.

But the defense of Alaska in the long run depends on its further development. Alaska needs people.

That is why the Senate ought not to dismiss without careful consideration the King Bill providing for organization of development corporations through which private capital could be attracted for settlement and development of Alaska by American citizens and immigrants.

This is an effort to meet an important situation, and if the bill as drawn runs into valid objections, it should be revamped but not pigeonholed. Delay until next session means a year's delay in a situation in which time counts heavily.

Don't Blame the Congressman

IT is easy to blame your congressman. A conspicuous target, a facile butt of ridicule, staff of life for the comic writer and artist, congressmen have a tough time.

Bruce Barton, advertising man, disillusioned by a term in Congress, says that a successful congressman is one who "just voted for all appropriations and against all taxes."

That isn't literally true, and Mr. Barton is no doubt indulging in a little poetic license, but there is all too much truth in it. And for that core of truth, who is responsible? Not the congressman alone, by any means. His desire to be reelected is a perfectly natural and laudable one. Who's to blame, then?

Who, indeed, but the voters, who want so avidly to enjoy the benefits of those appropriations, and hate so bitterly the thought of paying the taxes?

AROUND THE PENINSULA
(Ironwood Globe)

Hancock is setting a good example as a part of its campaign to be attractive to tourists. The Chamber of Commerce is urging all business men to make Quincy street, the main thoroughfare, presentable by painting their store fronts and making other improvements. Property owners are also called upon to co-operate in a general cleanup and brighten up campaign. That's better than merely hanging up a "come again" sign.

St. Ignace is enthusiastically preparing for a homecoming in August which will feature a perch jamboree, a swimming contest from St. Ignace to Mackinac Island and other events. The Mackinac County Conservation club is promoting the event. The perch jamboree ought to be quite an attraction, and so should the swimming contest. While the distance to the island is only four miles, it takes a husky swimmer to make it.

The Menominee city council has two battles on its hands—one political and the other legal. The political battle is an effort on the part of Municipal Ownership leaguers to change the method of paying for the cost of the sewage disposal plant recently completed. Taxpayers are now assessed 55 per cent of their water bills. Leaguers want general bonds issued to cover the cost. The legal scrap involves the effort of the city to regain title to the Jordan college property, which the religious order now controlling it opposes. Menominee's council wants to take back the property and be in position to offer it to the federal government for air force training purposes. The latter issue will probably go into court before it is settled.

By all odds, the school situation in Iron Mountain is the strangest in the Peninsula. Most school systems have been so strapped financially that it was wondered whether they could meet the salaries of teachers for the entire year. But in Iron Mountain the past fiscal year has been so good that teachers will get a special bonus of a half month's salary when checks are handedout this month. This is made possible, says President Bacco of the school board, through the co-operation of every one in the system holding down the operating costs. There's another side to the picture, however. Even with the bonus the teachers at Iron Mountain will not be paid as much as teachers in some of the communities of the Peninsula.

The other day Escanaba had what it considered quite definite proof of improved business conditions. Twenty of the 77 men assigned for work on city WPA projects failed to put into appearance. A few may yet report, think city officials, but this percentage is too high and the only conclusion to be reached, they think, is that most of the absentees have found employment in local industries. It must be admitted that it is a rare occasion when nearly 30 per cent of the WPA employes fail to report for work.

Conservation officers working in the Garden peninsula area in Delta county confiscated 600 pounds of undersized whitefish not long ago, but had a difficult time in establishing ownership. The fish were shipped by a company which was owned by Senator James Dotsch until three years ago when, he said, he leased it to an Escanaba man. The Escanaba man said he held the lease, but was not active in management of the business. Finally the manager, located at Garden, was the man against whom charges were preferred. Unusual tactics were employed in confiscating the fish, by the way. Conservation officers boarded a Soo Line train headed for Wisconsin and had to hurry the inspection before the train reached the Badger border where their jurisdiction ended.

Iron mining at Norway has taken a spurt. The Penn Iron Mining company, operators of the Vulcan mines, has both enlarged its force and increased the working week. Working conditions, in fact, are the best they have been in 10 years, says Harold Richards, superintendent. The number of employes has been increased by 20 to bring it to a total of 425. Shipments to the docks at Escanaba are expected to amount to 600,000 tons, which would be an increase of 158,000 tons over last year. If the war keeps on for a substantial period and the United States speeds its defense program, Norway may see an even bigger spurt in mining, to say nothing about the rest of the mining ranges.

HATCH LAW AMENDMENTS
(Milwaukee Journal)

Right now congress is concentrating its attention on preparedness. It should, but it need not for that reason forget some earlier measures which are still hanging fire.

One such measure provides for amendment to an strengthening of the Hatch law forbidding pernicious political activity by those in government employ. This measure may easily have defense angles. It has passed the senate. The president favors its passage. It would probably be passed in short order by the house, if the house got to vote on it.

The present situation is that the house judiciary committee is refusing to release it for a vote. The committee apparently intends to continue to refuse, unless pressure is brought from some quarter. The only quarter powerful enough to get action right now is the people. Hope for the Hatch bill amendments lies, therefore, in exertion of that presaure.

Will it come? It should.

World Affairs Reviewed

England's hurried preparations to resist an expected invasion by German parachute troops marks an important milestone in history, for except during almost negligible raids, no invaders have set foot on English soil for nearly 900 years, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Georgraphic Society.

Although Great Britain has been bombarded from sea and air, and more than once has prepared to resist threatened invasions, no hostile soldiers actually have invaded England since 1066, when William the Conqueror crossed the English Channel from Normandy with his army.

—INVADED OFTEN BEFORE 1066—

Strangely enough, an invasion of England from Norway not long before helped pave the way for the success of the Normans, for it diverted British forces northward and weakened their power before the famous Battle of Hastings in which the Norman invaders won supremacy.

Before 1066, England was invaded many times by the Saxons, Danes, Norsemen and others, but after the Norman conquest there were no further hostile incursions, although English armies several times invaded France and the Low Countries.

It was more than 500 years after the Norman conquest that the Spanish Armada brought the next great threat of invasion to England. In 1588 King Philip of Spain sent a vast fleet of 132 ships with 33,000 men to gain control of the English Channel so that a Spanish army could be brought over from the Netherlands. The defeat of the Armada by the English fleet under Sir Francis Drake and its subsequent destruction in a storm is a familiar chapter in English history.

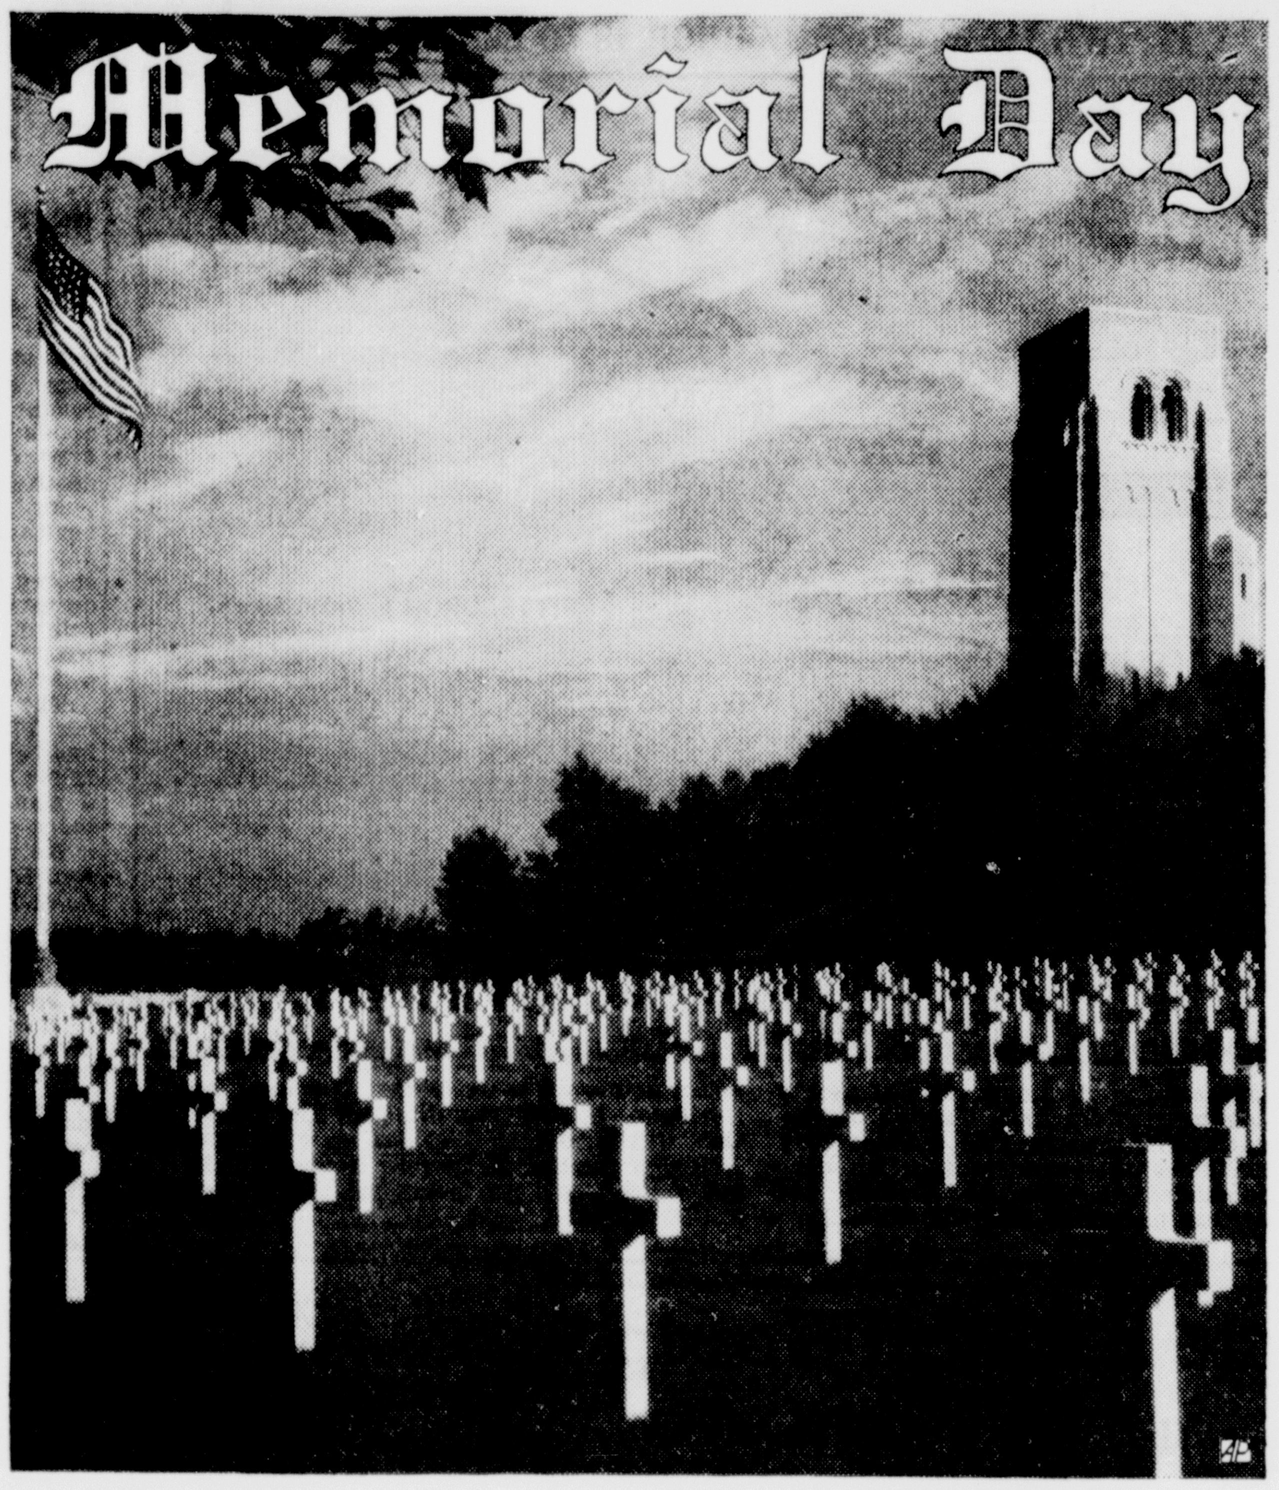
A French army of 50,000 men was gathered to invade England in 1759 during the Franco-British War which is better known in the United States as the French and Indian War. The plan failed when the British Navy defeated the French fleet which was to escort the army across the channel.

—NAPOLEON THREATENED IN 1804—

The next threat of invasion came from France in 1804 when Napoleon I assembled an army of 100,000 to cross from Boulogne and land on the coast of Kent in southeast England. A defense army was hurriedly recruited and defenseworks were thrown up on the coast where the attack was expected. Remains of these works can still be seen. Again the British Navy came to the rescue, however, by preventing the concentration of the French and Spanish fleets, which would have been necessary to protect the crossing of Napoleon's army.

No invasion of the British Isles was attempted during the World War, but German cruisers bombarded towns on the English east coast on at least two occasions. German Zeppelins and airplanes carried out a series of air bombing attacks on London and other points in England.

Perhaps not many Americans realize that the Revolutionary War naval hero, John Paul Jones, made a raid on Whitehaven, a British port on the Irish Sea just south of the Scottish border opposite the Isle of Man. Jones took the forts by surprise, spiked their guns and attempted to set fire to ships in the harbor.



HERE, near the battlefields of the new World war, are the graves of some of the Americans who died in the last one—in the Aisne-Marne American cemetery near Chateau-Thiery on the Meuse River between Paris and Sedan.

A reader can get the answer to any question of fact by writing The Escanaba Daily Press Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C. Please enclose three (3) cents for reply.

Q. Who are the highest paid free-lance radio script writers? D. J. H.

A. Merrill Denison in an article in Harper's Magazine says that the two highest paid free-lance script writers are, reputedly, Elaine Sterne Carrington who writes "Pepper Young's Family" and "When a Girl Marries," and Gertrude Berg, author of "The Goldbergs" and "The House of Glass." Both these writers are said to be in the $1,000-per-week class.

Q. How large do penguins grow? F. P. A.

A. The largest penguins belong to the Emperor species, standing about 3½ feet high and weighing approximately 80 pounds.

Q. What is the most perfect single food? C. D.

A. Milk furnishes the essential needs for good nourishment more completely and economically than any other single food.

Q. Why does a holly bush have thorny leaves near the ground and smooth ones higher up? J. C. H.

A. Holly grows thorny leaves near the ground to protect itself from browsing animals. Branches beyond their reach often produce perfectly smooth leaves.

Q. What country is the Holy Land of three religions? E. E. T.

A. Palestine is reverenced alike as the Holy Land by the Jews, Christians, and Mohammedans.

Q. Why is Pennsylvania called the Keystone State? W. H.

A. Because when the Union was formed it was the keystone of the arch, six States lying to the south of it and six to the north. It still remains the Keystone State, not merely because of its geographical location, but because of its political importance, its immense natural resources, vast industrial development, and great population, second only to that of New York.

Q. Did Jane Addams win the Nobel Prize? R. L. P.

A. She shared the Nobel Peace Prize with Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler in 1931.

Q. In what way were insects responsible for the making of paper? M. C. H.

A. The story is told that a Chinese sage watching some wasps building a nest conceived the idea which resulted in the first man-made paper.

Q. Please give the date of the Berkshire Symphonic Festival at Stockbridge, Mass. J. E.

A. The Festival will open on August 1 and will close August 18. The concerts will be presented by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Sergei Koussevitzky conducting. Among the distinguished artists who will appear are Gregor Piatigorsky, cellist, Albert Spalding, violinist, and Dorothy Maynor, the talented Negro soprano.

Q. Where is the deepest underground restaurant in the world? E. T. P.

A. It is said to be the one in Carlsbad Caverns, New Mexico, which is located 700 feet below ground. Because of the chilly temperature of 56 degrees throughout the year, the coffee cups have to be preheated. As many as 1000 persons have been served in the cafeteria at one time.

Q. What library has the most complete collection of Hardyana? R. H. J.

A. The collection of the Colby College Library at Waterville, Maine, is conceded by many authorities to be the finest in existence. It includes the only known complete set of both English and American first editions and appearances of all Thomas Hardy's novels and poems. There are also so many original letters, manuscript facsimiles, portraits, and dramatizations.

Q. Is there any estimate of the total number of stamps that have been issued in all countries? W. B.

A. During the hundred year period of philately, a total of 99,324 varieties of stamps has been issued.

Q. Where is Bellini's famous sixteenth century painting of Christ carrying the cross? H. L. M.

A. The art masterpiece has been acquired by the Toledo (Ohio) Museum of Art.

Q. Please give President Coolidge's quotation on persistence. H. N.

A. It is as follows: "Nothing in the world can take the place of persistence. Talent will not—nothing is more common than unsuccessful men with talent. Genius will not—unrewarded genius is almost a proverb. Education will not—the world is full of educated derelicts. Persistence and determination alone are omnipotent."

Q. Who is director of Hull House in Chicago? W. R. T.

A. Miss Charlotte Carr has been director of the famous social settlement since 1937.

R. Harrison Platte, Chicago newspaper man, who was badly injured last fall when a motorcycle in which he was riding in a side car as a passenger overturned near the city, arrived in Escanaba yesterday for his first visit to the city since the accident. His recovery has been complete and he is again working with the circulation department of his paper.

Three men enlisted in the navy yesterday at the local station. They are J. T. Duford and David Richards of Escanaba and Edward Hansen of Chicago.

Street Commissioner Louis Danielson of Gladstone announced that the annual spring clean up has practically been completed and as a result the city now is a "spotless town."

Flashes of real baseball, although they were few, served to enliven a ragged game between Escanaba and Gladstone high schools at the South Park, which Escanaba won, 10 to 9. Batteries for Escanaba were Gibbs, Brotherton and Gleich and for Gladstone, Greenlund and E. Feeney.

Members of the board of review for the city of Escanaba completed their work for the year at the city hall yesterday after adding between $200,000 and $300,000 to valuations on the city tax roll.

Word was received in the city last night that Howard Gelzer, formerly of this city, is seriously ill in a hospital at Milwaukee.

Hollywood Column

Hollywood—Those tender, intimate love scenes that pack 'em into the theaters usually are rehearsed and shot on closed sets. But Rosalind Russell and Jimmy Stewart—two of the best in the murmured, underplayed romance class — performed to a full gallery for a couch-scene in "No Time for Comedy."

They're married in the film—a successful playwright and his star-wife—so it's quite proper when Stewart flings his lank form on a striped couch and nestles his head against Miss Russell. She fondles his hair, bends down and kisses him. I'd say Mr. Stewart is a very lucky man, and it's going to look swell on the screen, but I wish they could leave the rehearsal ad libbing on the final sound track.

They got off to a good start by limbering up on tongue twisters about "greasy gray geese grazing gaily" and "rubber baby-buggy bumpers." Miss Russell, in a clinging white dinner gown with a lot of diamond jewelry, looked extra handsome.

She fingered the glittering bracelets and murmured that Stewart must be an awfully smart playwright—Broadway never paid off like that when she was on the stage.

Since she has to look romantically shorter than he, Miss Russell wore flat-heeled beach shoes, asked the cameraman, "Are my size 12's in the picture?"

HUSBAND STEWART RIGHT AT HOME

She draped herself decoratively on the couch, Stewart flung himself down on it, butted his head against her and murmured, "Ummm-comfy!" Miss Russell blushed solidly, pulled up a lock of Stewart's hair and asked acidly, "Do women tire of you easily? My, but you're handsome! Don't let anybody ever tell you you can't wear blue."

Director Bill Keighley, dissatisfied with the pose, told Stewart to try it again. He took another dive, looked up to ask, "What kind of landing did I make that time?" During the first line, he reached up to take Miss Russell's hand, bend the fingers back gently. "Uh-uh," she said. "That's been done at RKO. I think it was in a B-picture." They finally agreed on another gesture and went on to the kiss. But Stewart wasn't comfortable, complained, "If I reach up to kiss her, I'm gonna break my neck. Let Rosalind break hers."

Miss Russell argued bitterly, lost, wailed despondently at Keighley's decision. They tried the scene again but Stewart got tangled up in his own feet and clutched her as they almost slid off the couch. Miss Russell smoothed her hair, bowed to the gallery and announced, "The Lunt and Fontanne of Burbank."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY PEARSON AND ALLEN

Washington—One of the things which is holding up the manufacture of more military equipment for the Army and Navy is the fact that so many U. S. factories are sending machine tools to Japan.

The War Department has just finished a confidential survey of the machine tool industry and finds that most American plants are working on orders for the Japanese. Machine tools are all-important in the munitions business, because they are used to equip new factories expanding to meet new national defense orders.

As far as the War Department is able to ascertain, Japan has plenty of machine tools, and is storing many of the new shipments now received from the United States—for emergencies. Japan also continues to be a big importer of U. S. scrap iron, and also is storing it for the future.

These are two reasons why President Roosevelt has asked special powers of Congress to embargo shipments of materials which are considered vital to the defense of the United States. He expects, as soon as authorized by Congress, to slap an embargo on scrap iron and machine tools to Japan.

—GOP BLASTS—

The barrage of Republican blasts against a coalition Cabinet which has strafed the country recently was no spontaneous meeting of minds. Neither was it aimed entirely at the President. It was aimed much more against the Republican Party itself.

Inner GOP master minds admit that their political chances have been almost as hard hit as the shattered Allied lines in Europe. Prior to this catastrophic development GOP election prospects appeared very bright indeed.

It looked as if the campaign would be fought chiefly on Republican ground; that is, on domestic issues. Also, it was doubtful whether Roosevelt would run. But the Hitler blitzkrieg changed this situation overnight.

The Allied disaster, its ominous implications to the United States, and national defense pushed everything else into the background. The GOP no longer could take an ambiguous "peace" stand, but has been torn wide open on the war issue. Powerful elements within the party were publicly clamoring for American aid to the desperate Allies.

It is a secret of Republican congressional leaders, but they had to intervene forcibly to prevent some of their followers from introducing bills repealing the Johnson Act, which bars credits to the debt-defaulting Allies.

Meanwhile every Nazi victory drew Democratic lines closer together, cut the ground from under the inner party foes of a third term, and daily made it more certain that the President would run.

—COUNTER-ATTACK—

This was bad enough, and Roosevelt's move to bring one or more Republicans into the Cabinet made it worse.

To National Chairman John Hamilton, Pennsyvlania boss Joe Pew, Hoover and other inner moguls, the consummation of this plan meant the finish of their election hopes. With several Republicans in the Cabinet and Roosevelt heading the Democratic ticket, the GOP wouldn't have a chance.

Something had to be done fast to block this. After a series of hurriedly called secret conferences and much long-distance telephoning, a two-pronged counter-offensive was launched, one aimed at the President, and the other at Colonel Frank Knox plus other Republicans who might be offered Cabinet posts.

The barrage on Roosevelt was opened by Colonel Lindbergh's speech pooh-poohing any invasion danger. In inner GOP circles this is credited to Hoover via his close friend William Castle, former Under Secretary of State. Castle has advised Lindbergh on most of his speeches, accompanied him to the radio station when he made this one.

This was followed up with the carefully spaced statements by Landon, Hoover, Representative Wadsworth, House Floor Leader Martin and others demanding that the President renounce a third term as the price for GOP participation in the Cabinet.

The counter-attack within the party was largely undercover. Heavy pressure was brought on Knox not to accept a Cabinet offer, and it was strongly intimated that any Republican who did accept a Roosevelt Cabinet appointment would be vigorously opposed for confirmation.

Along with the Trojan Horse revival, we see they're pulling the old Mahomet play too. It seems the Kaiser couldn't go to Germany, so Germany's come to him.

President Roosevelt denies he remembers telling a delegation of Iowans he would not seek a third term. One man's way of clearing up a confusing point.

Lines for Living

By Barton Rees Pogue

DECORATION DAY

A cheer for the living,
  A flower for the dead,
With the folds of OLD GLORY
  Smiling down overhead;

A command and a volley,
  The tramp of feet
In time with our hearts
  And the drums that beat.

Once more we pay honor
  To the living and lost,
Both of them willing
  To pay the high cost.

But when will humanity
  Seek its release
From war's useless carnage
  And murder of peace?

Teach us, dear God,
  To learn of Thy Son
And settle our hates
  Before they've begun.

3 TO ATTEND BOYS' STATE

Training In Government Will Be Offered 900 Youths

Three boys will represent this community at the third annual Wolverine Boys' State to be held June 20-28 on the Michigan State College campus in East Lansing, it has been announced by Edward Moersch, commander of the Cloverland post of the American Legion. The local boys are being sponsored by the Legion.

Boys' State is sponsored by the state department of the American Legion, under general chairmanship of Carl Matheny of Detroit. Service groups and pattriotic organizations throughout the state are cooperating.

Thus far, three local boys have been chosen to attend the meeting at East Lansing; Norman Kincaid, a junior in the Escanaba senior high school, and two boys from St. Joseph's high school, Fred Hirn and George Breault.

When they assemble in East Lansing, more than 900 boys from every county in the state will be divided into cities and counties, and the entire group will comprise Wolverine Boys' State. For eight days they will conduct affairs of the mythical 49th state, electing their own governor and state officers, as well as county and city officials. Courts, law enforcement agencies, and legislative bodies will be set up by the boys, who will operate them under supervision of a specially chosen counsellor staff.

Boys' State citizens will conduct government duties of their junior common-wealth with a free hand, counsellors serving mainly in an advisory and guidance capacity.

Besides the training in citizenship and government, the Boys' State program includes tours of the Michigan State College campus, Lansing industrial plants, and the state capitol. Boys will also have use of college athletic facilities.

Rather than supplanting any part of school curriculum, Boys' State gives leading young men in a community opportunity to put into practice some of the things learned in the classroom.

Former "Mayor" of Akyar, Burma, Dr. Gibouleau, Was Visitor Here

The following story concerning Dr. G. H. Gibouleau, which appeared in a recent issue of the Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., Daily Tribune, will be of interest to members and friends of the family of Adelore Boudreau of 818 Second avenue south, this city, a cousin of Dr. Gibouleau.

The story follows:

This is the story of a man who has spent the better part of his life and all of his earnings in the interests of humanity and who now, nearing the age of 50, must practically start his life anew, earning his livelihood as a lecturer.

Money and material things have had no selfish significance to him throughout his life—as much as $30,000 of his earnings have been spent on hospitals and medical dispensaries in the interior of India and 19 years of his most active life have been spent in helping others, giving them the benefit of his education and medical training.

Ambition Unrealized

At the half century mark this man finds himself unable to continue his studies for the priesthood because of his health. That body which could "take" the almost unbearable humid heat of 105 degrees in the shade in India will not withstand the confinement of indoors at his studies and he finds himself disappointed and unable to attain the end desired—that of ordination in the priesthood and return to India for further missionary work.

The man is Dr. G. H. Gibouleau, a visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Treutel, 510 Fourth street south, who Tuesday evening told of his interesting experiences in India before a group of civic, service club and school officials at the Treutel home, addressed the local Rotary club Wednesday noon and presented his story to another group at the Treutel home last evening.

Spent 19 Years in India

The doctor went to India as a young man with two classmates following completion of his medical studies at Montreal. One of the three died from fever nine months later, the second stuck it out for only two years and Dr. Gibouleau spent 19 full years of his life doing medical missionary work among the Indians. During that period he returned to the States once for a lecture tour which netted him $30,000 and with that sum he returned to the Orient happy that he had money which would construct and supply hospitals and dispensaries.

"When the natives ran out on their own people who were stricken by a plague of fever, I continued to work among them—to nurse them back to health—and as my reward they elected me municipal commissioner, a post comparable to mayor in this country," the doctor tells as he displays the clothing presented to him when he held that post.

"It will be centuries before India can be modernized and if it is modernized it will mean starvation to millions of people," he predicted as he pointed out that the people cling to the old system of things, not wishing to change from the ways of their forefathers. Paganism is predominant. Anything that has the power to kill is looked upon as a god; natives will not kill snakes nor wild animals even though many lives are taken daily by these creatures.

Presented Ring by Pope

Dr. Gibouleau wears a solid gold hand carved ring set with topaz which was presented to him by Pope Pius XI in recognition of his work among the Indians. "I will not soon forget that occasion," the doctor said he told of his audience with the pope.

SAYS SCIENCE 2-EDGE SWORD

DeKruif Sees Dictators Out to Destroy Humanity

San Francisco, May 29 (AP) — Paul de Kruif, the writer and bacteriologist, asserted that science was a two-edged sword of life and death, and that if the United States failed to make the edges equally powerful, it was "all through."

"We might as well admit that we can't fight totalitarianism with democracy," the author of "Microbe Hunters" and "Hunger Fighters" told a meeting sponsored by the San Francisco tuberculosis association.

"We are, in fact, faced with totalitarianism of a kind in this country—a totalitarianism of defense.

"The only thing that will protect this approaching totalitarianism of defense from the depravity and moral deterioration which stemmed from the dictatorships of Europe is a concentration on the health of the people."

Sees Dictator Peril

"I am convinced that we don't have to be depraved and morally flabby to triumph," De Kruif said in his prepared address, supplemented by a press conference. "I believe that we can win out in the end without becoming racketeers and gangsters on a big scale as have the dictators of Europe.

"But let us not kid ourselves. Those three guys in Europe are on a romp to destroy all the mores of honor and decent living which have held humanity together. No one dares attempt to prophesy the outcome. This may be the end of humanity. Certainly it will be the end of a large part of humanity, for as far ahead as anyone living can see, if the Hitler-Mussolini-Stalin combination wins.

"We must use the forces of life to strengthen ourselves. Good mechanized protection will take care of the rest. Those of us who have fought for an adequate national public health program have said that the campaign for health could become the spearhead of all social advance. I don't expect now to see much social advance in my day, but the health fight still might be used as a bulwark of human defense."

National Program Hopeless

De Kruif said he despaired of a national health program in the near future, declaring that "the federal government seems powerless to organize such a program."

"Our hope lies," he continued, "in parochial and local efforts. And our last, back-to-the-wall hope is that if we can stir up enough local activity against all the preventible disease, there might develop a coalescence which would bring about a national program."

BY FREDERICK GARDNER

New York, May 29 (AP)—Wall Street's traders took a more hopeful view of business prospects today and leading stocks rose as much as three points.

Accompanying the advance were bonds and most commodities, particularly those intimately associated with war needs.

Two technical factors underlaid the improvement: First, covering by many short traders and, second, adjustment of trading accounts in preparation for the Memorial Day closing.

Above these factors appeared the satisfaction of many commentators in the market's firm behavior Tuesday in the face of the Belgian surrender—an action which had caused fear of a wide break.

Opening trades today were, consequently, based on fairly large overnight buying orders. Prices jumped a point or so before lethargy set in and the ticker tape dawdled the rest of the session with few important changes in prices.

The Associated Press average of 60 selected stocks rose .4 of a point at 38.4. The turnover was 657,082 shares compared with 1,263,510 the day before.

As the slowest day in three weeks, the session showed operators relaxing from previous hysterical dealings which were reported to have "shaken out" large numbers of small marginal accounts on the buying side.

Steels led the upturn, largely on the basis of reports of increased operations because of allied and United States government orders, coupled with a building-up of inventories by users who feared government-priority orders might cut into their supplies.

Gaining in the curb, where 123,000 shares were exchanged compared with 191,000 Tuesday, were Chesebrought, American Aluminum, Scoville Manufacturing, Todd Shipyards, Great Northern Paper and Pittsburgh & Lake Erie.

Chief of the rising commodities were wool tops, hides and rubber. Wheat at Chicago was unchanged to ½ cent a bushel higher and corn was 3-8 to 5-8 cent down. Cotton ended 10 to 20 cents a bale up.

DAY'S MARKETS IN BRIEF

New York, May 29 (AP)—

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, May 29 (AP)—Although trading was slowed by the usual pre-holiday inertia, wheat prices today managed to advance slightly in partial response to rather sharp gains at Buenos Aires and Winnipeg and strength in securities.

Although the unsettled world situation, sluggish foreign demand and diminishing domestic activity deepened many dealers' reluctance to change trading positions, particularly before the holiday, scattered purchasing kept prices higher most of the session. Chicago quotations were up as much as ½ to 7-8 cents at one time, wiping out entirely the loss suffered yesterday, but closed unchanged to ½ higher compared with yesterday's finish, July 83½ to 83 3-8, September 83 3-4 to 83 5-8.

Corn closed 3-8 to 5-8 lower, July 62 5-8 to 62 3-4, September 61 3-4; oats unchanged to ¼ off; rye 1-8 to ¼ down and lard unchanged to 3 higher.

Winnipeg wheat rose as much as 2½ cents at one stage and closed about 2 cents higher, reflecting buying credited to mills in connection with British purchases involving 10,000 barrels of flour overnight. It was believed here British buyers are stepping up buying of flour, rather than wheat, in view of the invasion threat which may impair grain storage and processing facilities.

Buenos Aires prices were up around 4 cents following establishment of minimums as of Monday's close below which no trades can be made. However, Argentine reports confirmed trade fears that war has curtailed at least temporarily that country's European market inasmuch as shipments destined for some European ports have been diverted or cancelled. However, the remaining Argentine surplus is small.

Corn was lower most of the session due principally to expanded country selling with booking of 116,000 bushels to arrive the largest in more than two weeks. Receipts of 105 cars here also showed an increase and the 12 principal terminals received 375,000 bushels against 260,000 a week ago. Shippers sold 28,000 bushels of corn and 15,000 oats. Some of the corn arrivals represented movement of loan grain from storage into export positions.

Lard firmness reflected the action of grain and steadiness of hogs.

New York, May 29 (AP)—The bond market acted with considerably more composure today, recapturing from fractions to 2 or more points of the losses suffered in the sharp plunge early Tuesday on news of the Belgian surrender.

An assortment of domestic rails, utilities, and industrials as well as obligations of some of the warring European powers were in steady but moderate demand all day and ended right around the best prices.

Volume of $4,334,550, par value, compared with $6,412,500 the day before. The Associated Press averages were up all along the line except the 10 industrials, which lost a minor fraction.

The government list was extremely quiet but the few issues changing hands were up 1-32 to 16-32 of a point.

Foreign loans in demand included Italian 7s, Japanese 6½s, German 5½s and Argentine 4s.

U. P. Briefs

MRS. FURLONG HURT

Sault Ste. Marie—An ankle injury was suffered about 10:30 a. m. today by Mrs. F. P. Furlong of Newberry when a car driven by her husband collided with the rear of a car driven by Mrs. George Neff, also of Newberry, on highway US-2 near the county poor farm.

According to a report made to Sheriff J. Willard Welsh, both cars were headed toward the Sault. Mrs. Neff said she slowed her car to a stop for an approaching funeral procession. Mrs. Neff said she drove partly off the pavement, but Mr. Furlong said her car remained on the pavement.

The front of the Furlong car was heavily damaged, while the rear of the Neff car was damaged. Mrs. Neff was alone at the time of accident. Mrs. Furlong was taken to a Sault physician for medical attention.

WILL OPEN OFFICE

Iron River—Atty. W. J. Embs, former Iron county judge of probate, arrived Sunday from Kalamazoo and announced yesterday he plans to reopen a law office in Iron River.

He practiced law in Iron River for many years and was a member of the Iron County Bar association prior to 1936 when he moved to the Lower Peninsula.

Mr. Embs, a graduate of the University of Michigan law school, was a membe rof the last famous "point-a-minute" football team at the state university.

TAX RATE LOWERED

Marquette—The 1940 tax levy for the city of Marquette for schools, school debt, general city purposes and the library will amount to $147,804.80, it was announced by the department of accounts and finance yesterday.

This year's tax rate will be $16.72 on $1,000 valuation, compared to $16.90 in 1939, a decline of 18 cents. The levy, however, will be based upon a real estate and personal property valuation of $8,840,000, compared with $9,123,000 last year, and as a result 100 per cent collection of the 1940 levy would yield $6,373.90 less than last year.

STUDY STAMP PLAN

Marquette—A Marquette county committee, composed of E. R. Nelson, of Ishpeming, director of the county's social welfare commission, and Thomas J. Nicholas, Sr., of Palmer, member of the county board of supervisors, visited the federal surplus commodity food stamp office headquarters in Grand Rapids this week to investigate the system with a view to its adoption in this county.

Walter D. Robinson, FSCC agent in charge, discussed the setup with the Marquette county men.

Nelson and Nicholas were appointed by the supervisors at their last meeting to investigate the food stamp plan. While in Grand Rapids they also attended the national conference of social work.

Doings About Capitol

Lansing—Michigan industrial plants, geared to meet sudden demands of America's new preparedness program, are reported suffering from a shortage of skilled labor.

At Washington where a vast aviation program is being rushed to legislative completion, military experts decry the lack of trained ground mechanics as a serious barrier to immediate realization of the world's foremost air force as recommended by President Roosevelt.

In this situation of national emergency it is a sad commentary on government, and democracy in particular, that with all this feverish appeal for trained workers—men who incidentally command good pay—government has done comparatively little to rehabilitate the idle thousands on public relief and the idle thousands inside prison walls to fill jobs such as these.

The state social welfare commission is reported to be fully cognizant of the need of rehabilitation for family heads in those areas of northern Michigan, outside the industrial belt. But the state has a deficit of approximately 30 millions; the legislature reduced the relief appropriation, and you can't spend money you haven't got.

The prison situation appears to be somewhat different.

Therein lies an interesting story—one that is off the beaten track. It is the story of Michigan's "forgotten men"—the 7,500 inmates of our prisons.

5,000 Prisoners Idle

When citizens commit a wrong against their fellows, justice decrees they must be punished. Minor offenses bring a jail sentence or a fine; major offenses bring incarceration inside prison walls.

In Michigan's three prisons—Jackson, Ionia and Marquette—are 7,500 men.

They are serving time ranging from a year to life.

Approximately 950 out of the 7,500 are "lifers."

What do these 7,500 men do? Are they kept busy at useful tasks? Are they given an opportunity to rehabilitate themselves, to maintain their vocational skill?

Here is the answer:

Out of the approximately 6,500 prisoners who may be eligible to ultimate parole or release, only 1,500 are given employment in prison industries.

Today there are 200 prison inmates, already paroled by the state for good behavior and conduct, who are denied the privilege of freedom because they cannot find a job outside.

An Old Question

The question of prison-made goods and where they should be sold has beset many state legislatures.

Until 1935 the state of Michigan permitted prisons to sell products of state industries in the open market. It was what the Michigan furniture industry considered to be competition with private industry—sale of prison-made furniture to state institutions—that led to adoption in the legislature of a new law. This law permitted the state to purchase its products anywhere, presumably at the lowest price according to specifications. Only binder twine can be sold in the open market for private use.

In New York and 12 other states it is compulsory for state departments and institutions to purchase such equipment, as could be manufactured to meet specifications, from state prisons. The argument is that the state should use its own agencies to reduce its own costs, and all this in the interest of the taxpayer, of course.

Michigan prisons maintain the following industries:

Jackson prison—Binder twine factory, brush shop, canning factory, metal stamp plant (license plates, beds, etc.), print shop, tailored garment factory, textile plant and shoe factory.

Ionia prison—cotton garment plant, furniture factory and soap factory.

Marquette prison — Tobacco plant, brick plant, and snow fence factory.

Training Men

William H. Burke, manager of the Michigan state industries, points out that Michigan is one of three states which confines prison industrial activities to a small field such as state institutions and departments on a non-compulsory basis.

"Out of the 490 men who have been employed at the Jackson prison textile mill, 200 have just been laid off due to lack of state orders," said Mr. Burke whose offices are at Jackson. "These men go back into their cells, idle and unproductive. In the meanwhile, state purchasing agents are buying textile goods elsewhere.

"The law requiring men to have jobs before being paroled is sound. But at the same time it fails to provide that these men prepare themselves while in prison to assume their places again in society. Our prison program has been negligent in this regard. Require prison inmates to do something that will teach them the habits of industry; make them self-supporting and you will improve their attitude toward society."

Burke lauded the state corrections commission for establishment recently of a trade school at Ionia reformatory in cooperation with private industry.

Industry Critical

Michigan manufacturers have been critical of prison industry. The low cost of prison labor, 10 to 25 cents a day, is an emblem of "unfair competition," they say.

But in the meanwhile thousands of prisoners are in idleness, supported by society itself and denied the privilege of learning and practicing a useful trade.

DANGER — ROMANCE AHEAD

● SERIAL STORY

BY TOM HORNER

COPYRIGHT, 1940, NEA SERVICE, INC.

CAST OF CHARACTERS

MONNIE MILES—her mania for fast driving almost wrecked her romance.

LARRY COLLINS—newspaper reporter, hunting the murderers of his brother.

MIKE BENTLEY — wealthy rancher, knew too much about auto accidents.

* * *

Yesterday: Larry hurries to the landing field, sees the plane taxi inside the hangar. He gets inside the building, when Bentley and the pilot go to the house. Larry hides in Bentley's plane. After the other ship takes off, Larry's horse is discovered. Bentley searches the hangar, orders Larry to come out of the plane.

CHAPTER XII

Larry backed out of the cabin of Bentley's plane, raised his hands, and turned slowly to face his captors.

"Collins!" Bentley shouted as he recognized Larry. "What are you doing in my plane?" His automatic was aimed at Larry's chest. Back of him, Bill stood, his arms cradling a sub-machine gun.

"I been hearing about your airplane, so I came up to take a look at it," Larry answered, playing his cowboy role to the last. "You and I haven't been friendly, so I didn't wait for an invitation. When Pete sent me out to watch the calves tonight I came on up here and took a look around. I never was in a plane before so I crawled into yours. Mighty nice. Mighty comfortable." He laughed embarrassedly. "Guess I must have dropped off to sleep."

"You've been asleep? That's a good one!" Bentley's laugh echoed through the hangar. "How long you been here, Collins? When did you wake up?"

"I must have come in here about 10 o'clock. Tied my horse to a bush about half a mile or so down toward the canyon. First thing I knew this guy was yelling about something he'd found; then you said you were going to shoot up the plane, so I came on out when you said to.

"I didn't mean to hurt anything, Mr. Bentley," Larry apologized. "I'm sorry if I caused any trouble."

"You've been sound asleep all the time?" Bentley demanded. "You haven't seen anyone, heard anything—"

"Wait a minute, Mike," Bill broke in. "This guy's no dumb cowpoke. I seen his someplace before . . . I got it! He's the guy we borrewed a car from after that bank job . . . the roadster, with New York plates. I told you about it, remember?"

The jig was up. No use pretending any longer. Larry grinned at Bill, "If your conscience was as good as your memory, Bill, you'd have a lot less to worry about."

"A cowboy from New York, huh?" Bentley eyed him coldly. "Just what is your racket, Collins?"

"Keeping a jump ahead of you, Bentley."

"Okay, wise guy. Bill, take care of him and dump him into the canyon." The gunman raised the tommy-gun. Larry waited. "I'm glad Monnie knows everything," he told himself, confident that she would carry on for Hugh and himself.

"Wait, Bill!" Bentley shouted. "Got a better idea. If a Hayhook hand were found dead, old Miles would raise nine kinds of trouble. We'd have to close up here."

He returned his attention to Larry, smiling self-confidently.

"So you were riding night herd on calves tonight. Barnes must be worried about cattle thieves. He'll lose some tonight. And when we're finished with you, Collins, you'll be a dead cattle thief. The Colonel and Barnes and everyone else will thank me for getting rid of you . . . Yeah, much better that way.

"Take our truck, Bill—we'll say he stole it—cut through the canyon and pick off a dozen or so of the Hayhook's best. Knock a few more in the head, just to make old Miles madder. Take this Hayhook horse and turn it loose. Plant those field glasses near a dead calf. Leave the sledge there and be sure it has Collins' fingerprints on it.

"You can take that new man, Morrows, to drive the truck. When you 'catch' the cattle thieves, put a slug through Morrows' head. I don't trust him.

"Take the truck up toward the river, park it in Lost Canyon. You can take care of Morrows there. Leave plenty of tracks. Call me in the morning. I'll either be here or at the Hayhook. Meantime, lock this guy in the cellar and put a couple of men guarding him.

"So long, cow thief," he said to Larry. "Better get some sleep. It's the last you'll have, alive."

* * *

There was trouble at the Hayhook the next morning. When Larry did not return by breakfast time, Barnes sent two hands out to look for him. They returned in an hour, leading the saddled black, carrying the field glasses and a bloody sledge-hammer. Barnes listened to their report, then hurried to the Colonel's office. Monnie was with her father.

"Lost 16 head of top calves last night, Colonel," the foreman began. "Twelve hauled away, four knocked in the head and left there. I've—"

"Sixteen head!!!" the Colonel thundered. "By heaven, I'll hang those rustlers to the tallest cottonwood on the Hayhook. Saddle a horse for me, Barnes. I'll ride with you." He took down a well-worn gun belt and holster from the antlers above his desk, strapped it around his ample waist. "I've trailed rustlers before—and caught 'em, and no—" He searched his vocabulary for choice names to amplfy his opinion of a cattle thief.

"Larry? What happened to collins?" Monnie demanded, anxiously.

"I guess we bet wrong on that boy, Miss Monnie," Barnes admitted. "Looks like he was in with the thieves. Found his horse and his field glasses. A rope around the neck of one of the dead calves looks like his—and there wasn't a rope on his saddle."

"Larry wouldn't! He couldn't be mixed up in it!" Monnie jumped to defend Larry. "He wasn't even there. He was—" She checked herself. Whatever Larry had done, she couldn't betray his confidence. If she went on, her father and Pete would question her, would discover Larry's secret mission. "Oh, I don't know what I'm saying. . . . But surely you're wrong about Collins, Pete!"

Her father had paid little attention to her. If Pete had noticed, he would wait until later for an explanation.

"Looks bad for Collins, Miss Monnie," Pete said. "Can't condemn him, though, until we hear what he's got to say."

"He'll talk with a rope around his neck," the Colonel growled.

* * *

A step sounded on the porch. The door framed Bentley's tall figure. "Mind if I come in, folks? I'm looking for my truck. Someone stole it last night. . . . Where are you going, Colonel? Looks like you're getting ready for a war."

"There'll be war—and plenty of it," the Colonel roared back at him. "You lost a truck. I lost 16 head of my best calves." He spun the cylinder of his antique .45, jammed it into the holster. "Bring some rope, Barnes."

"I'm way ahead of you, Colonel." Bentley laughed easily. "Figured the fellows who stole my truck might cut your herd. I sent my men up the river at dawn to cut them off. Usually these sattle thieves head right for the brakes. . . . I'm driving up that way. Want to go along, Monnie?"

Monnie shook her head. "No, thanks, Mike. If I go, I'll ride with Dad."

"You'll stay right here," the Colonel ordered. "There's going to be a hanging, and you don't need to see it. Come on, Pete."

The telephone jingled. Barnes answered. "For you, Bentley."

Bentley took the receiver, listened. "Good work, Bill. Keep him there. I'll tell Colonel Miles." He turned from the telephone:

"Got your rustlers for you already, Colonel. The boys picked up the truck tracks, followed them into Lost Canyon. One of the thieves is up there, with the truck . . . dead. Bill brought the other one back to my place."

Monnie gasped. "Who? Which?" she whispered.

"The dead man's a fellow named Morrows, had him working for me. The other—the one up at my place—is Collins, your top Hayhook hand, Barnes."

"I'll still hear what Collins has to say," Barnes answered.

"Boys took him off the truck, begging for his life," Bentley went on, enjoying Barnes' increasing resentment. "Morrows put up a fight. Evidently they had it pretty well planned."

"We'll take the sheriff up to Lost Canyon, identify the calves," the Colonel broke in. "Then come by and talk to Collins. Don't say anything about having Collins. I don't want the sheriff to know it—yet. We'll let on like Collins escaped, help the sheriff hunt around the river for him.

"We'll be over at midnight to get him. There are trees on the Hayhook that have been decorated before. Guess they grew there just for danging cow thieves." The old rancher stalked out, followed by his foreman. Bentley hesitated, as if he intended to speak to Monnie, then walked through the door.

A hundred thoughts raced through the girl's mind. She ran after Bentley.

"Wait, Mike! I'll go with you." Her face was grim, her lips set in a determined line as she came up to him. "I want to tell that low-down calf stealer just what I think of him."

Stonington

Stonington, Mich.—The special service at Bethel Lutheran church on Saturday afternoon was largely attended. Dr. Peng Fu from China was the guest speaker. He was assisted by Rev. Lundeen as interpreter. Rev. Lundeen also gave a short address following the address of Dr. Fu. At the close of the service Dr. Fu sang a song for the children, "Jesus Loves Me" in Chinese. Everyone seemed very delighted and considered it a special treat. Rev. L. R. Lund of Trinity Lutheran church assisted in the service with Rev. Ralph Hult. Refreshments were served following the program.

The Ladies' Aid of Trinity Lutheran church met at the church on Sunday afternoon. The service was held at 3 o'clock. Rev. L. R. Lund had charge of the service.

The Ladies' Aid of Bethel Lutheran church will meet at the Hugo Jacobson home on Decoration Day. Services will be held at the church at 2 o'clock. Refreshments will be served at the Jacobson home following the service. Hostesses for the afternoon include Mrs. Hugo Jacobson, Anna Nystrom, Mrs. Axel Johnson and Mrs. J. Arthur Mattson.

Mrs. Charles Johnson, who has been ill all winter, is improving so that she is able to sit up.

Schools closed in the community the past week.

C. P. Titus was a caller in Stonington Friday.

Musical Program, Installation At Closing Meeting

Activities of the Junior high school Parent-Teacher unit for the year closed with a splendid meeting Tuesday evening, at which an excellent musical program was enjoyed by an appreciative audience and installation of officers was held.

The program, given by the musical department of the school included glee clubs, orchestra and band, and the performance was a credit to the participants and their instructors, Miss Gertrude Lund, Frank Karas and Ross Stoakes.

Officers who assumed their places are as follows:

Mrs. Hugh Boyle, president.

Mrs. Edward Erickson, first vice president.

Mrs. C. S. Fredeen, second vice president.

Mrs. Roger Moras, third vice president.

Miss Nellie Bartley, secretary.

Mrs. Otto Scheidner, treasurer.

Albin Starr, historian.

Clarence Zerbel, school adviser.

Mrs. James Ferguson and Mrs. Carl Rehnquist, Council delegates.

Proceeds of the recent card party were turned over to Mr. Zerbel for the purchase of a motion picture screen to be used in regular class work and in assembly programs, and Mr. Zerbel responded with a few remarks pertaining to next year's program.

The meeting closed with a general discussion of the coming year's activities.

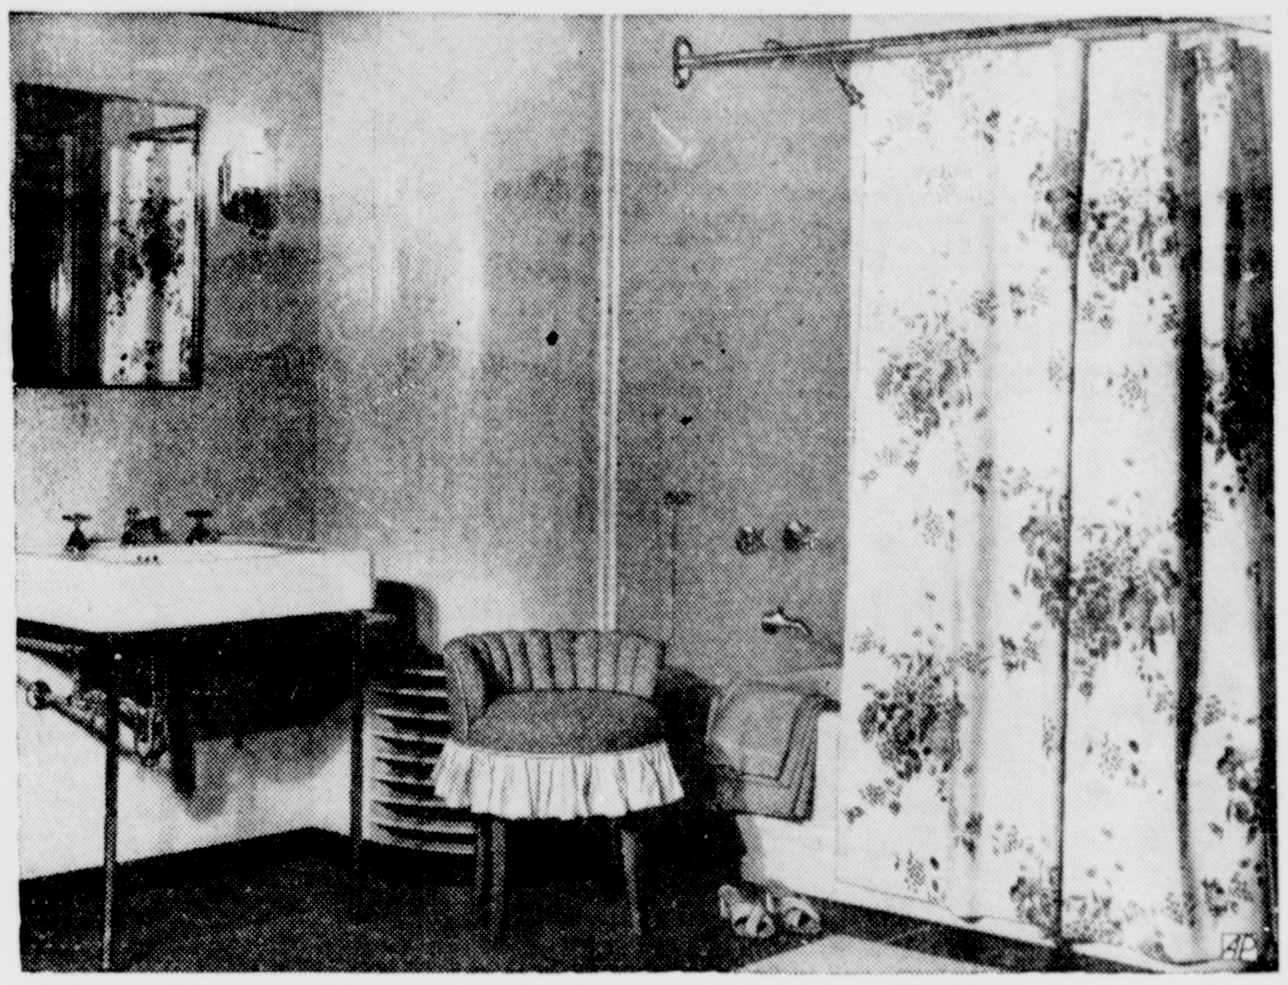
Shower Curtains In Floral Design



From old English chintz these rubber shower curtains borrow the floral design that puts them right in line with modernized Victorian trend in decorations for other parts of the home. The waterproof mules by the tub are fine welcome home for the girl graduate—not to mention the large mirror over the wash basin.

$50,000 Stamp Is Of Small Concern To Its Possessor

A woman who has never collected anything in her life owns a stamp that makes stamp collectors shiver in awe. It is the British Guiana one penny stamp of 1856, considered the most valuable stamp in the world and valued today at $50,000.

Considering the fact that in proportion to its weight it is more precious even than radium, Mrs. Ann Hinda Scala, of Utica, N. Y., doesn't take her one penny stamp very seriously.

HELPED PAY GERMAN REPARATIONS DEBT

She was given the stamp by her first husband, Arthur Hind, before his death. Mr. Hind bought the stamp for $37,000 when the Ferrari collection was auctioned off by the French government, the proceeds being credited against Germany's bill for reparations. Ferrari had willed his entire collection to Germany, but had, unfortunately for Germany, left it in France when he fled at the outbreak of the war.

Of course Mrs. Scala does take good care of her precious bit of paper, which she describes as "terribly homely." It is kept in a clear cellophane envelope, covered by a black cellophane envelope inside an asbestos box in a vault in her home.

But she has none of the reverance for the stamp that collectors feel for it. But she does respect the collector's love for a rare object. So every stamp collector working at the Ambassador hotel was invited to come to her suite to see it when she stopped there on her visit to New York City to leave the stamp with World's Fair authorities. It is to be on display at the Fair in connection with the Centennial exhibit.

IT TAKES COLLECTOR TO APPRECIATE IT

Mrs. Scala looks on her stamp simply as a sound investment. Asked if she planned to give or will it to a museum she said, "Goodness no."

No one but a stamp collector could appreciate a stamp's being worth $50,000. But it doesn't seem odd to a philatelist, a one-penny stamp issued in British Guiana in 1856 should become so valuable that less than a century later it must be chaperoned by a special agent when it is taken to an exhibition—even if the exhibition is across the ocean.

• LOVE, COURTSHIP AND MARRIAGE

BY ERNEST R. AND GLADYS H. GROVES

Noted Authorities on Marriage Relations

• • •

The truly modern bride and groom have learned to avoid the bad start, once common, for their new venture.

A terrific round of social gaieties, the strain of being the central figures in a pageant most satisfying to the furthest removed relative or dim acquaintance, seems a bad way for a young couple to begin life together.

Too tired to marry.

Career girls are tempted to work harder than usual and overtime to leave their job in good shape or to earn extra money for trousseau or home furnishings. When they add to this apartment-hunting and other necessary preparations for getting married, they are handicapping themselves at the very beginning of their marriage career.

Those who are practical in wanting to make a go of their marriage will plan so as not to be caught up in a whirl of unusual or annoying social life just before the wedding day. Nor will they hesitate to put off the wedding if either or both of them gets overtired or ill.

This is no more than taking reasonable precautions, just as they would do if they were about to enter upon any other undertaking that seemed even half as important as marriage.

They would not think of setting off on an important exploring trip when worn out by extraordinary frolickings with their friends. Nor would they prepare to step into an advanced business position by getting all tired out doing some other kind of work that had no relation to their job.

Father Bourgeois Will Be Deacon At First Mass

Rev. Fr. Lester C. Bourgeois, assistant pastor of St. Anne's church, will assist in the first mass of another of his boyhood friends, Rev. Fr. Charles Michael Herbst, at Menominee on June 9.

Rev. Fr. Herbst, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Herbst, of Menominee, was ordained to the priesthood in the chapel of the Pontifical College Josephinum in Worthington, Ohio, on May 26. He will celebrate his first solemn mass in St. Adalbert's church at Menominee on Sunday, June 9.

Rev. Fr. Bourgeois will be deacon of the mass; Rev. Fr. Glen E. Sanford of Marquette will be subdeacon; Rev. Fr. James Miller, arch priest, and Robert J. Chisholm of Stambaugh, a schoolmate of Rev. Fr. Herbst, master of ceremonies. The sermon will be delivered by Rev. Fr. L. A. V. Decleene, O. Praem., of St. Norbert's college, DePere.

A dinner and reception for the young priest will follow the religious ceremonies.

Rev. Fr. Herbst will remain in Menominee for a vacation visit and will join the Marquette diocese for assignment to an upper peninsula parish.

MINE WILL SUSPEND

Iron River—Effective Friday, May 31, the Davidson Ore Mining company will suspend operations at the Davidson mines, Rudolph Ericson, general superintendent, reported yesterday afternoon. Approximately 80 men will be effected.

Heavy ore stockpiles on hand at the mine was cited as the reason for the shutdown in a telegram from the company's office in Buffalo, N. Y. The length of the suspension is not known, but Ericson said "We hope it won't be for long." The company plans heavier shipping than last year.

The Davidson mines have been operating on a three-day-a-week schedule since May, 1935, when they were reopened. Approximately 350,000 tons of ore is in stock.

Pumping of the workings will be continued.

SCOUTS ACTIVE IN MANISTIQUE

New Troops Organized In This District During Past Year

Manistique Scouts and Cubs took part in many outstanding activities during the past year, a review of the program disclosed.

Wm. J. Cook was active in the promotion of Scouting activities in the capacity of district commissioner. In addition to the many troop and pack activities such as hiking, weekly meetings, and projects, the following activities sponsored by the Council were held for Manistique Scouts and Cubs.

Of outstanding importance and interest was the two-day Camporee for Alger, Delta and Schoolcraft counties. This was held at the fair grounds and approximately 125 Scouts took part in the event.

One of the outstanding Boy Conferences of the U. P. was held at the senior high school under the direction of A. F. Hall, chairman of training. Two hundred Scout officers and their leaders took part in an all day conference on Scouting methods. Also, in the line of training were adult courses held by Scoutmasters and Cubmasters. Six Manistique Cubbers took part in an all day course in Escanaba. Fifteen leaders took part in an afternoon and evening training course recently.

New Troops Organized

New troops were organized in Gulliver and Cooks and these troops were added to the Manistique district. A new Sea Scout ship organized in May was the first of its kind ever organized in the Manistique area.

Courts of Honor were held every quarter under the direction of Judge Stephens and Manistique leads the Council with eight Eagle Scouts in the program.

First Aid Contests

First aid contests were held again in Manistique with Troop 61, Larry Musser, Scoutmaster, representing Manistique in the Gladstone Council finals.

Cub Activities

Cubs had a great deal of fun in the Soap Box Durby sponsored by the Scout organization and the Pioneer Troop unit. A Cuboree, a one-day camping event was held at the fair grounds for all Cubs. Gordon Hughes as Cub commissioner, was active in the promotion of events.

District Potluck

Over two hundred persons took part in the annual meeting of the district and shared a potluck supper prepared by mothers of the Scouts and Cubs.

National Leader Speaks

The most recent training event in Manistique was held recently when Lew Hall of the National Council, Boy Scouts of America, spoke to the Council executive board at a dinner meeting in Manistique.

A. J. Cayia is district chairman of the Manistique district.

Mrs. Frank Jehle will leave the latter part of this week for Detroit where she will make their future home. Mr. Jehle will join her at the close of the school term.

Mr. and Mrs. Elver Johnson, of Chicago, arrived Monday evening to visit several days at the home of Mr. Johnson's mother, Mrs. Alma Johnson, North Second street.

The girls' first project was block printing and to utilize their skill they made Christmas cards. Also at Christmas timethey made and filled a large Christmas basket for a needy family. Their next project was spool knitting, each girlmaking a purse as an accessory to her spring wardrobe. On Mother's Day they presented their mothers with hand made linen handkerchiefs. This troop will have a display in the window of the West Side Drug Store beginning Saturday.

3 BOUND OVER AFTER HEARINGS

Liquor Cases Heard In Justice Court Here Tuesday

Preliminary hearings were conducted Tuesday in the cases of Jack Johnson and Henry Rogers, charged with liquor law violations. Each was bound over to circuit court and bond was fixed at $1,000. They previously were on bonds of $500 each.

Examination was waived in the case of Arthur Durocher and he was also bound over to circuit court. His bond of $500 was continued.

John A. Roberts, state police detective, testified in both cases, to the effect that he had made liquor purchases both at the Keystone Cafe, operated by Johnson, and at Mae's Restaurant, operated by Mr. and Mrs. Rogers.

Durocher also testified as a people's witness in the Johnson case, admitting that he had made liquor sales with Johnson's knowledge and consent.

Rogers presented a long list of witnesses to establish a defense that he was not in Mae's Restaurant at the time Roberts alleged he made a liquor purchase.

POTATOES MOST VALUABLE CROP

Clanahan Gives Interesting Address to Lions Tuesday

"The potato crop is the outstanding agricultural crop in Schoolcraft county from the standpoint of dollars and cents value, and Schoolcraft county is one of seven counties in the upper peninsula where the potato crop is the most valuable grown," D. L. Clanahan, crop specialist, told the Manistique Lions club in a very informative address Tuesday evening.

Clanahan reported that the crop census figures for 1934, the latest figures available, showed that the potato crop in Schoolcraft county was worth $111,000.

Showing the increase in potato production in the upper peninsula in recent years, Clanahan disclosed that in 1930 a total of 185 carloads of potatoes were shipped from the upper peninsula, and that in 1938-39 there were 889 carloads of potatoes shipped from the peninsula, an increase of nearly 50 percent.

Costs $75 Per Acre

Clanahan declared that the upper peninsula is well fitted for potato production, pointing out that peninsula has better climate, more rainfall and more daylight than the lower peninsula of Michigan.

"Good seed, good equipment, generous use of fertilizer and good cultivation are necessary for successful potato production," Clanahan told his listeners.

"It costs about $75 per acre to grow potatoes successfully, so it is evident that potato farming is not profitable unless a yield of upwards of 150 bushels per acre can be attained. There are many farmers getting potato yields from 200 to 400 bushels per acre, however.

"We tell farmers that they can't go wrong by investing from $300 to $700 in good spraying equipment. In fact, we go farther than that. We tell them that unless they're willing to spend time and money in spraying their potato plants regularly and efficiently, it is better not to plant at all. Spraying is the only effective insurance against potato blight."

Clanahan reported that businessmen in the upper peninsula are showing considerable interest in potato production and that some organizations, such as the Delta Potato Growers Association, are sponsoring contests to increase potato production and to improve tht potato crop.

In conclusion, the speaker declared that potato production, where crop rotation is being followed, has proved beneficial to the production of other crops, particularly hay and grain.

Clanahan was accompanied here by Ira Cargo, agricultural agent for the eastern counties of the upper peninsula.

LIONS SELECT NEW OFFICERS

Miss Esther Nelson arrived Wednesday from Chicago to spend Memorial Day weekend with her mother, Mrs. Herman Larson.

DATES PICKED FOR FESTIVAL

July 26, 27, 28 Chosen for Blueberry Festival

The board of directors of the Manistique Chamber of Commerce selected July 26, 27 and 28 as the dates for the second annual Blueberry Festival and voted to name the event the National Blueberry Festival.

B. C. Dalrymple, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, was named executive secretary of the festival.

Appointment of committees and plans for the event are going forward and will be announced later, Mr. Dalrymple reported.

The Chamber of Commerce board also discussed ordinances governing sales by house to house canvassers with a view to establishing legislation here against such sales activities. Ordinances now in effect in surrounding cities will be studied.

CITY OBSERVES MEMORIAL DAY

Parade Will Be Held By Legion Post This Morning

Manistique will observe Memorial Day today, featured by a parade and program planned by the American Legion post here.

The parade will start at 10 o'clock at the American Legion cottage and will proceed to Elk street, then west to the soldiers and sailors monument where a salute will be fired. Girl Scouts will assist in the ceremonies at the monument.

The parade then will continue to Lakeview cemetery, where taps will be sounded. A volley will be fired at Fairview cemetery.

Chaplain Martin of the CCC's will be the Memorial Day speaker.

BUS COST SCANNED

Stambaugh — By unanimous vote, the board of education last night put Carl G. Nelson, president, E. J. Wittock and Herman Lithen, trustees, on a committee instructed to make a thorough inquiry into the high cost of transporting children to and from the schools. According to C. I. Clark, superintendent, transportation cost the district for the year just closed $4,000 more than was received in the form of state aid. An effort will be made to reduce the outlay for this purpose.

Because it is anticipated that there will be less state aid in 1940-41 than in 1939-40, the board plans to save money wherever possible. Only one man, Harold Holmes, will overhaul the busses during the summer. Last year two men were hired for this work.

Recognition Day Conducted at GHS

A Recognition Day assembly was held at Gladstone high school on Wednesday morning. The purpose of the assembly was to summarize the meritorious work of all senior high school students and the accomplishments of various organizations and clubs.

LeRoy Christian gave a report on the work of the various musical organizations and the awards given to outstanding students during the year. A summary of the activities of the Senior Girls' league was given by the president, Alice Quinn. Audrey Tardiff was honored for work as the school accountant. Barbara Riley represented the Annual staff. The sophomore class response was given by President John Collins. A summary of the tennis team by Coach Norman Peterson, was followed by a report of junior class affairs by Paul Cowen, Hi-Y activities by Pat McCauley, awards in the athletic department by Coach Keil, and a report of the printing club by President Ed Larson, and of the Commercial club by Betty Anne Paine. Mr. Fisher summarized the class plays, Pat McCauley the senior class, and Mr. Sundblad represented the Pep club. Public speaking awards were given by Mr. Skellenger.

Eugene Noblet, winner of the District declamation contest, presented the school with the District banner.

Conan E. Fisher was in charge of the event.

City Briefs

Misses Alice and Vera Berg have arrived from Chicago for a visit at the home of their father, Alex Berg, Minnesota avenue.

Mrs. Jens Wheaton left Tuesday for Evanston, Ill., where she will visit with her daughter, Dorothy, who is a student at the Evanston Academy of Fine Arts. Dorothy will accompany her on her return to spend the summer vacation.

Louis Page and Richard Hetrick have returned to Rogers City, after attending the funeral of David Page, Sr.

Herbert W. Turner and H. E. Clark returned Tuesday morning to Stoughton, Wis., following a week's visit with friends here.

Mrs. Marie C. Page and son, Richard returned to Marquette after attending the funeral services for David Page, Sr.

Cyril Page has returned to his home in Minneapolis after attending the funeral rites for his grandfather, David Page, Sr.

Pupils Entertained At Picnic Tuesday

As a reward for selling the most tickets for the Freshman class play, the students in Miss Laidlaw's home room were entertained at a picnic on Tuesday afternoon at Pioneer Trail park.

The play cast also attended the picnic. Games and hiking were enjoyed after which a picnic supper was served.

To Honor War Dead At Memorial Rites Today

American war dead will be honored at memorial services today at Fernwood cemetery arranged by August Mattson Post, American Legion.

A short downtown parade will precede the cemetery services. In the parade will be Legionnaires, Boy Scouts, Campfire Girls, the high school band and others. Legion Auxiliary members will attend the services at Fernwood.

Rev. Ivan O. Gonser, pastor of the Methodist church, will be the speaker of the day and he announces "The Challenge of Memories" as his topic.

A. D. Alguire will be in charge of the program at Fernwood which is customarily held at the Legion burial plot.

STORES TO CLOSE

Business houses of Gladstone will be closed throughout the day. City offices will also be closed and the postoffice will observe the usual holiday schedule. There will be no delivery or window service but the lobby will remain open for the convenience of box patrons and incoming and outgoing mail will be worked.

There will be a flag raising ceremony, a prayer by the Legion chaplain, Lincoln's Gettysburg Address by Paul Cowen, a selection by the high school chorus and band, the address by Rev. Gonser, a salute to the dead by the Legion firing squad and sounding of taps by Eugene Noblet Jr., and Floyd Cassidy, buglers.

The line of march will be from the Legion hall to Delta, west to Tenth, south to Wisconsin, east to Seventh, north to Delta, west to 8th and then up 8th to Superior and back to the Legion hall.

Assistance will be needed to transport marchers to Fernwood and the committee in charge requests persons having room in their autos to stop near the Legion hall and help out.

On the committee in charge are H. J. Skogquist, Arthur Skoglund and Leonard Elquist.

Dance Review Will Be Presented Here

Pupils of the Helen Cloutier School of Dancing will be seen in an entertainment Friday evening at the Legion hall.

The dance review is presented in playlet form. The playlet "Swing School" was written by Mrs. Cloutier, and is entirely in verse and portrays the last day at swing school when children are being tested for letters and diplomas.

In the cast are Mrs. Elizabeth Van Winkle as the teacher and the students are pupils of the Helen Cloutier School of Dancing, here and at Escanaba.

'Stique Sea Scouts Visit In Gladstone

Manistique Sea Scouts about 30 strong, accompanied by their leaders, visited Gladstone Tuesday evening and met with Gladstone Yacht club members who are planning to assist in a Sea Scouting program locally this summer.

With the group were Sea Skipper Lud Hough, First Mate Larry Musser and Mauritz Carlson. Musser outlined the Sea Scouting program and told of the interest and development in the Manistique group. There are now 38 youths enrolled and more coming in daily, Musser said. They have a 20 piece band, every member of which is a Sea Scout and in this respect are probably unique.

The only eligibility requirement is that the applicant be at least 15 years old, Musser pointed out. No previous land Scouting experience is necessary and this opens up the field and provides an activity for older boys and young men.

Most of the Manistique Sea Scouts were nattily attired in navy blue uniforms and their appearance drew much favorable comment.

During the evening the group demonstrated boat drill under the direction of First Mate Musser.

Members of Safety Squad at Buckeye School Win Awards

Members of the Buckeye School Safety Squad have been awarded pins and certificates for successfully passing a quiz prepared by the Automobile club of Michigan, it was learned yesterday from John Norton, school principal.

Composing the service squad which works indoors and is an all-girl unit are Naomi Strom, captain; Betty Jane Dausey, lieutenant; Carol Friedgen, Helen Mae Nelson and Helen Marie Nelson.

On the safety patrol which guards crossings and danger points outdoors are James Anderson, captain; Richard Williamson, lieutenant; Junior Erickson, Melvin Gabrielson, Walter Balenger and Gerold Soderman.

Donations on Poppy Day Little Over $70

A little over $70 was contributed by local residents on Poppy Day which was held last weekend, it was learned yesterday from Mrs. William Valind, president of the Legion Auxiliary which conducted the sale.

Auxiliary members who canvassed the downtown section were Mesdames Wm. Valind, H. J. Skagquist, Joseph Louis, George Nebel, Eugene Noblet, Carl Johnson and Clara Peterson.

They were assisted by a group of high school girls who canvassed the residential section. Among them were Nathalie Hillewaert, Violet Swenson, Elode Valind, Yvonne Lierman, Helen Mae Noblet and Carmel Caron.

Junior Teams Will Clash Here Today

Gladstone and Rapid River junior league baseball teams will clash in a practice game this afternoon at the North 9th street diamond immediately upon the conclusion of the city team game, it was announced by Gordon Haga, recreation leader, yesterday.

Either Legault or Rottschild will hurl for the locals with Strom as catcher. Krouse and Kennedy will likely form the Rapid River battery. The head-of-the-bay team is handled by Bob Cavill.

Friday afternoon the Kipling Lions and the Owls will meet in a practice session.

Mrs. Neil H. Bakke, Dolph Page and Clifford Page returned to their home in Pontiac on Tuesday after attending the funeral of their father and grandfather, David Page, Sr.

Baseball Season Opens With Home Game Today

The Gladstone Redskins swing into action today with the start of the Rainbow league season, clashing this afternoon with the strong Manistique aggregation on the North Ninth street diamond. The game is scheduled to start at 2:30 o'clock.

With the hurling staff augmented by Norm McIntyre and the lineup showing several new faces, it appears the Redskins will make things hot for other Rainbow league teams.

Manager Dib Bovin is expected to send either Vern Ward or Fitzpatrick to the mound in the opener. Jim Cannon will be behind the plate, either Pat Cannon or William Mackie at first, Stanley Srock at second, Harry Kircher at shortstop, Geboy Coulliard at third and the outfield will be composed of McIntyre, Joe Stambulich and Phil Legault.

Coulliard hasn't been out for practice this week having sustained a side injury but reports yesterday were to the effect that he would be in uniform this afternoon and ready to hold down his favorite infield spot.

A picked group of Boy Scouts from various local troops will sell tickets at the field, canvassing all spectators watching the game. They will receive a percentage of the gross amount taken in and thus spectators may help the Scout program in Gladstone as well as the ball club treasury by contributing when solicited.

Briefly Told

Bake Sale—The Ladies' Aid society of the First Baptist church will sponsor a bake sale at Blackwell's Hardware store on Saturday. The committee in charge is composed of Mrs. Axel Larson and Mrs. N. J. Hedstrom.

Public School 8th Graders In Outing

Students of the eighth grade held their annual picnic on Tuesday afternoon at the City Park. The afternoon was spent in playing baseball and other games. The boys defeated the girls by a score of 7 to 6, in baseball.

Norman Peterson was a guest of the class and Mr. Skellenger was the faculty advisor accompanying the group.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to take this means of expressing our sincere appreciation for the wonderful acts of kindness shown us by neighbors and friends at the time of the illness and death of our dear husband and father. We wish to thank those who donated cars, sent flowers and spiritual offerings, those who came to console us and their many kindnesses, those who served as pallbearers and Rev. Fr. Schaul for his consoling words. The memory of these acts of kindness will always remain with us.

Signed,

Feller Stops Tigers, 7-4; Cubs Lose Again, 8 to 2

RECRUIT SEATS THUMPED HARD

Indians Salvage One Tilt of Costly Series With Detroit

Cleveland, May 29. (AP)—Bob Feller flagged down the Tigers today, 7 to 4, for his first victory in three starts against Detroit this year, permitting the Cleveland Indians to salvage one game of a costly series.

Beaten twice in a row by the Tigers, the Indians regained a little of the lost ground as Feller hurled his seventh triumph of the season—compared to two defeats, both by Detroit—and rookie Tom Seats' first start for the Bengals met disaster.

Seats, up from Sacramento in the Coast league, was thumped for four hits and allowed three walks for six runs in the first two innings. Before the second frame was over, the young southpaw gave up in favor of Johnny Gorsica.

Campbell Homers

This made it easy for Feller and, although the Tigers often put men on the bases, they never became dangerous. The first Tiger score was Bruce Campbell's home run smash over the right field wall in the fourth.

An Indian merry-go-round in the early innings began in the first with Lou Boudreau walking and Heath chasing him to third by doubling against the right field fence. An infield roller scored Boudreau and Hal Trosky doubled to count Heath. Ken Keltner strolled and Rollie Hemsley singled home Trosky.

In the Indian second, Feller scampered safely to first on a roller to Seats. Boudreau forced him, but Heath walked and, after chapman flied out, Trosky made first on Rudy York's bobble, filling the bags.

Slashing a double to center, Beau Bell cleaned the sacks and Seats was waved to the showers, Gorsica coming in and retiring the side.

St. Louis At Detroit

The Indians equalled Campbell's homer of the fourth when, in the fifth, Gorsica made a two-base wild throw on Hemsley's tap and Mack singled.

Charley Gehringer's single and Hank Greenberg's double scored for the Tigers in the sixth, and Pinky Higgins' double and two outs put over another in the seventh. Pinky doubled again in the ninth and Billy Sullivan duplicated it for the last Tiger run.

The Tigers went home tonight for a Memorial Day doubleheader with St. Louis tomorrow.

Barron Closes School Career Today; First Nine Letter Man In History

Handsome, smiling Bobby Barron today winds up his athletic career—a career not equalled by an Escanaba high school athlete in at least 10 years.

Barron, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Barron, 502 South 15th street, will represent Escanaba in the pole vault event at the Relays and is given a good chance of capturing, or at least, tying for first place. But regardless of how he finishes, he already has assured himself of being awarded his track letter, which means that he will be the first Eskymo athlete to receive nine letters since the local school became a three year high school in 1931.

Barron, who is an honor student, started his athletic career in the fall of 1937 when he was reserve quarterback on the football team, which was undefeated and was considered Upper Peninsula champion. The next year, he became regular quarterback on the team and the Eskymos lost only to the championship Norway team. This past year, Barron sparked the Eskymos to another undefeated season, this one undoubtedly the greatest in the history of the school. The team won the undisputed peninsula title and was unscored on. In the three years that Barron was a member of the team, only 33 points were scored against the Eskymos, who won 21 games and lost but one in that period of time.

Using his tremendous natural speed to good advantage, Barron broke in as a regular on the basketball team in his sophomore year in spite of his small stature and retained his forward position throughout three years of competition. This year was his greatest, having been captain of the Eskymo team which won the ristrict championship and lost in the finals for the Upper Peninsula title by a margin of one point.

Thrilled By Strategy

Sprinting, broad jumping and pole vaulting occupied Barron's mind in track, where he again earned his letter as a sophomore and continued through his junior and senior years. He has done 11 feet 3 inches in pole vault, broad jumped over 19 feet and done the hundred in less than :10.8. Because of the press of other extra curricular activities in his senior year, Barron has been concentrating only on pole vault this spring.

The biggest thrill of his career? "It came in the second game of the football season last fall," said Bobby, in a reminiscent mood between practice jumps in pole vaulting, "when we were playing Norway. Norway had handed us the only beating the year before and we knew they would be tough. We were determined to lick them and I decided to gamble on a bit of strategy that would have made me look bad if it didn't work. I called for a long pass on the first play after the kickoff. Fortunately for me, it clicked beautifully and gained about 50 yards, putting us in scoring territory. That, I think, was the blow that demoralized the Vikings and enabled us to win easily. At any rate, I got a tremendous thrill as I looked up from my position on the ground and saw that pass completed."

Disappointed At Loss

The biggest disappointment? We didn't even have to ask Barron. We just remembered the tears he shed in the dressing room after losing that peninsula championship in basketball by one point. He had his eye set on his team capturing the title and to be so near and yet so far was disheartening.

Bobby, one of the most popular boys in school, has his mind set on going to college but hasn't chosen any as yet. And he hasn't made up his mind between a medical course or one of business administration. He'd probably be successful in either course—he's that versatile. Look at his athletic record.

Raw sugar is yellow before it is sent through the refinery.

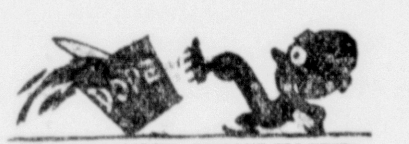
SPILLING the DOPE



BY JOHNNY INKSLINGER

THE RELAY CARNIVAL at the high school athletic field this afternoon brings here one of the finest fields of high school athletes gathered together in several years . . . while individual ability is submerged somewhat in the Carnival, there will be plenty of opportunity for the boys to show their abilities and for the fans to see what they can do . . . the calibre of competition at past Relay Carnivals is attested to by the list of former high school athletes who have competed here and who later made good in college . . . Earl Stolberg, one of the Marquette university athletes giving an exhibition here, is a good example . . . Earl, while a student at Iron Mountain high school, competed in the Relays here and won the pole vault event two years . . . in his senior year, he set the existing record of 12 feet 3 inches and, largely as a result of that mark, he earned an opportunity to get an education at Marquette university . . . so it was with Dick Schram, present coach of vaulters, who preceded Stolberg at Marquette as a vaulter and whose record was cracked by Stolberg . . . Cliff Liberty of Michigan State, Gene Ronzani of Marquette and Escanaba's own Eddie Holderman, now at Purdue university, all made good in college after competing at the Relays.

No man is a hero to his wallet.

WHO KNOWS BUT that there may be another Stolberg, Schram, Liberty, Ronzani or Holderman among the athletes competing today? . . . there are several fine boys who appear to have college ability . . . among them are: Don Kirkpatrick, Kingsford quarter miler who has been flirting with 53 seconds all year; Leonardi, Alpha miler, who has done 4:41 in his favorite event; Sloden of Iron River, Shampine of Munising and O'Donnell of St. Joseph, sprinters; Aaro Sutela, lanky Rock athlete who has done over 11 feet 3 in the pole vault and 5 feet 10½ inch high jump; George Shomin, sophomore hurdler, and Bobby Barron and Tom Finch, pole vaulters, all of Escanaba; and Del Santo, Channing hurdler . . . there are any number of other boys among the group not yet fully developed whose chances are equally good of becoming college stars . . . who, if any, will make the grade?

An actor says a small role is better than a long loaf.

ON BEHALF OF ESCANABA, we extend a hearty welcome to all Relay Carnival guests . . . that includes Earl Stolberg, Bob Shurilla and Art Schwope, Marquette athletes giving exhibitions; Coaches Con Jennings of Marquett,e Dale Sprankle of Albion, C. B. Hedgcock of Northern State, and Don Sherman of Michigan Tech.; Ted Carpenter, publicity director of Marquette; high school coaches and athletes and fans . . . while the Relay Carnival essentially is for the athletes competing, it also has been designed for the enjoyment of the public . . . and if, after seeing the Carnival, you have any constructive criticism to make for the betterment of it in the future, Ed Edick, high school principal who is the guiding hand behind the venture, will be pleased to have them . . . in the meantime, enjoy yourself . . . and on your way home, be careful of blitzkrieg motorists . . . we wouldn't like your Memorial Day to be a sad one.

DEBUT IS BAD FOR ATHLETICS

First Place Red Sox Outhit, But Garner 8-3 Verdict

Philadelphia, May 29, (AP)—Six-foot six-inch Wilburn Butland made his major league pitching debut with the first-place Boston Red Sox today by whipping Philadelphia 8-3.

The right-hander, who won 19 and lost 10 for Minneapolis in the American association last year, put the Athletics down for their sixth straight time.

The A's banged out 12 hits off Butland, in addition to four bases on balls, but in the pinches the rookie from Terre Haute, Ind., was supreme. Thirteen A's were stranded on base.

Boston got off to a fast start against Nelson Potter scoring three runs in the first inning when Manager Joe Cronin walloped a 3 and 2 pitch to left field for a double with the bases full.

Aided by Benny McCoy's two errors on one play the Sox added 2 more runs in the third. With the bases full Gene Desautels hit to Al Rubeling who threw to McCoy. McCoy dropped the ball permitting Jimmy Foxx to cross. McCoy then threw wild to the plate, letting Cronin score.

TWO PLAYERS EJECTED

St. Louis, May 29 (AP)—Catcher Mike Tresh of the Chicago White Sox and Johnny Berardino, Browns' second baseman, were ejected for fighting in the fifth inning of today's game.

Berardino, who had tripled, was out at the plate trying to score on a tap to the pitcher. He scrambled to his feet and swinging both fists, pummeled Tresh about the face before the surprised umpires and players from both teams could separate them.

WARNEKE HITS 3-RUN HOMER

Defeat Is Fourth One In Last Five Battles for Chicago

Chicago, May 29 (AP)—With Pitcher Lon Warneke hitting a three-run homer and his battery mate, Mickey Owen, driving in four runs with a pair of doubles, the St. Louis Cardinals routed the Chicago Cubs, 8 to 2, today in the third and deciding game of their series.

Larry French, who shut out the Cardinals twice in succession last month, suffered his third straight knockout when Warneke lined the ball into the left field bleachers with two on in the sixth after Owen had doubled in a run. Owen also had doubled with the bases filled in the fourth inning.

Dizzy Dean, in his first relief role of the year and his first appearance since May 12, shut out the Cardinals on three singles the last three and two-third innings. The defeat was the fourth in five games for the Cubs.

BROWNS NOSED BY WHITE SOX

Three-Run Push In 8th Holds Fifth Position On 4-3 Score

St. Louis, May 29 (AP)—Faced with loss of fifth place, the Chicago White Sox rallied with three runs in the eighth inning today and defeated the sixth-position Browns, 4 to 3.

Elden Auker, pitching for the Browns, was sailing along behind a 3-1 lead when the Sox found the range. Joe Kuhel's single, a walk to Mike Kreevich, Taft Wright's double and a single by Larry Rosenthal added up to the trio of runs and the game.

FOUR FROM MUNISING

Munising, May 29—Oliver Shampine, Llye Beaudry, William Shaffstall and Ben Montcalm, the Mather high school relay team, will be entered in the U. P. Peninsula relays at Escanaba on Memorial Day. The group will be accompanied by Coach Robert Villemure.

Transfusion Fails To Halt Sutela

LITTLE GIANT

Rock, Mich., May 29—Aaro Sutela, stolid Finnish lad who is Rock's main hope in the pole vault event at the annual Upper Peninsula Relay Carnival at Escanaba Memorial Day, doesn't stop even for blood transfusions, it was revealed here this week.

Sutela, who winds up a fine athletic career Thursday, scored three first places and one second for 19 points to contribute half of Rock's margin in winning the class D Upper Peninsula title at Houghton Saturday. His feat was all the more impressive when it was learned that just two days previously he had given a blood transfusion to his mother, who is seriously ill at an Ishpeming hospital.

Sutela, who has done over 11 feet in pole vault this year, is aiming at capturing the second leg on the Relay Carnival trophy for that event. He tied for first place with Barron of Escanaba last year. He also has done more than 5 feet 10 inches in high jump and close to 20 feet in broad jump this year.

Rock will compete in class D with the exception of the class C medley, where they will aim for permanent possession of that trophy. They acquired two legs on the trophy several years ago when in class C.

VICTORY IS ALL BUCKY WALTERS

Red Pitcher Hurls, Bats and Fields Way to 4 to 0 Win

Pittsburgh, May 29, (AP) — Bucky Walters, Chincinnati's converted third baseman, pitched, batted and fielded his way to his eighth straight victory today as the Reds trounced the Pittsburgh Pirates 4 to 0 to win three out of four games at Forbes Field.

The 30-year old Red pitcher held the Pirates to four hits, all singles; smacked two of the Reds' eight hits off Joe Bowman; and started two double plays in a masterful fielding performance.

In his first trip to the plate in the third inning, Bucky rapped out a single which advanced Lee Gamble from first to third. Then Harry Craft's single scored Gamble. Bill Werber was passed and Frank McCormick knocked out another single, scoring Craft and Walters with the third Red run.

The fourth Red run was driven in by the Reds' ace hurler in the fourth frame. With two out, Billy Myers doubled and Walters hit Bowman's first pitch for a single.

SENATORS LOSE 2-1 TO YANKS

Pitching Star of 1939, Atley Donald, Gives Up But 4 Hits

New York, May 29 (AP)—Atley Donald, the Yankees' rookie pitching sensation of 1939, made a belated bow as a starter today and held the Washington Senators to four hits for a 2 to 1 victory, the fifth straight for the world champions.

Suffering from sciatica all spring, the New York righthander had made only two brief appearances in relief. But today he was invincible, allowing nothing but singles and none of them until the fifth.

THAT GOVERNMENT OF THE PEOPLE, BY THE PEOPLE, FOR THE PEOPLE SHALL NOT PERISH FROM THE EARTH
MEMORIAL DAY

ABRAHAM LINCOLN, at Gettysburg, spoke words to which he attached no world-stirring significance. They were merely an expressin of thoughts which, to him, were a creed. They were nothing new to him. Yet students and practitioners of liberty took up those words and showed them to the world as America's own expression and interpretation of belief. Lincoln's simple statement of what he considered as knwn facts thus became a flaming pennant that proclaims the spirit of the Stars and Stripes! With such a creed for our land it leads us to resolve more firmly that these priceless possessions shall not perish from the earth!

23 Schools Compete In Relay Carnival Today

250 ATHLETES TO TAKE PART

Preliminaries at 1 p. m.; 12 Events On Card; Track Is Fast

Approximately 250 athletes from 23 high schools, the largest entry list in years, will participate in the Relay Carnival here this afternoon.

Athletes are urged to be at the field promptly at 1 o'clock, fast time, for the preliminaries in the hurdles, hundred yard dash and pole vault. Flag raising ceremonies will start at 2 o'clock and the meet will follow immediately afterward.

Eleven class B schools are competing in the Carnival today, with six schools in Class C and an equal number in class D.

Twelve events are listed on the card, with a large trophy being awarded the winner of each event. A team trophy also is given to the team with the highest number of points.

The complete list of athletes entered today follows:

Thorpe Claims 'Hundred' Will Be Run In :8.8

One hundred yards is equal to something like half a city block, and has been run by Charley Paddock, Ralph Metcalfe, Jesse Owens, Minoru Fijuii, Eddie Tolan, Frank Wykoff, and others in "a handful of seconds." Yet in the last five decades the world's greatest athletes have lowered the "century" record only six-tenths of a second. Is 9.4 the best man will ever do?

"Big Jim" Thorpe, referred to by many a coach and sports scribe as the greatest all-around athlete of modern times, doesn't think so. In a current Rotarian Magazine article he predicts a day when the distance will be covered in 8.8 seconds. "Outside factors," training, muscle control, improved starting blocks, modern processed tracks, and redesigned running shoes and spikes, will do the trick, he says.

"I am certain that within the next 50 years some streamlined sprint wonder will come plunging off the starting marks, his legs tattooing the hard-packed cinders with a speed never before seen," "Big Jim" asserts. "Where the average athlete requires, today, 45½ strides to cover the distance, this superman, adding extra inches to his stride, will require no more than 43. Where the average athlete feels fatigue at 60 yards, this superman will not know it until 80 yards. He will bullet into the tape at almost maximum velocity—and he will run 100 yards in 8.8 seconds! That is my prediction for tomorrow.

"You must only be patient. I remind you, 50 years ago it took 10 seconds to traverse the half block. Today it takes 9.4 seconds, and unofficially not even that long. And tomorrow, well, maybe not this spring or summer, maybe in several dozen summers, men will do the 100 in 8.8 seconds. That will be the human limit. That's when glycogen in muscle fibers will call a halt.

"Yes, in 8.8 seconds. Old Jim Thorpe may not be there to see it, just remember he told you so!"

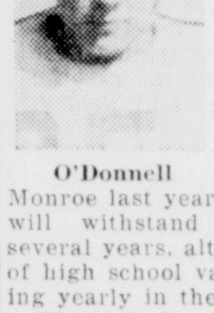
Relay Carnival Marks Getting Hard To Break

Built up over a period of 13 years under strong competition, records of the Upper Peninsula Relay Carnival are getting to a point where chances of being broken depend pretty much upon perfect conditions.



O'Donnell

Earl Stolberg's pole vault record of 12 feet 3 inches is slightly more than an inch below the state class A record of 12 feet 4⅝ inches set by J. Naveaux of Monroe last year and undoubtedly will withstand competition for several years, although the calibre of high school vaulting is improving yearly in the peninsula.

The existing record of :24 flat in the 200 yard low hurdles was set by LaCoy of Kingsford in 1936 and is but a half second off the state class B record of :23.5 set by Porteous of Birmingham in 1935.

Relay Century :10.2

The only other individual event on the Relay program is the hundred yard dash, record for which is held by Mildren of Ironwood, who ran the distance in :10.2 in 1936. Because of the situation of the stadium along the bay, the hundred yard dash usually is run in the face of a strong wind, a factor which, undoubtedly, has kept this time down. If the track is dry and there is no wind this afternoon, this mark may be broken. Sloden of Iron River and Shampine of Munising have hit :10.2 while O'Donnell of St. Joseph of this city has done :10:3 this year. Either of these boys may break this record.

The rest of the records, all of them in relay events are as follows:

Class C-D—St. Joseph, 1930. Time, :48.0.

Class B mile — Menominee, 1930. Time, 3:34.0.

Class D medley — Trenary, 1938. Time, 3:59.2.

Class C medley—St. Joseph, 1932. Time, 3:55.2.

Class B medley — Iron Mountain, 1938. Time, 3:47.1.

Two mile — Iron Mountain, 1939. Time, 8:39.1.

Class D 880—Channing, 1938. Time, 1:40.1.

Class C 880—St. Joseph, 1933. Time, 1:39.0.

Class B 880—Ironwood, 1938. Time, 1:35.0.

Jennings Here for Relays

Con Jennings, athletic director and track coach at Marquette University, has been named an honorary referee of the 13th Annual Upper Peninsula Relay Carnival here today. Jennings is coach of Earl Stolberg, Bob Shurilla and Art Schwope, who will give special exhibitions today.

C. B. Hedgcock, athletic director of Northern State Teachers College at Marquette, again will serve as referee of the meet. Hedgcock has had much experience in running track meets and has handled the Relay Carnival for several years.

Other officials today will include:

Starter: Dr. Rohrman, Oregon State College.

Chief Judge of Finish: Bart Park, Kansas University.

Head Timer: Franz Schubert, Houghton Tech.

Head Track Judge: Leo Brunell.

Clerks of Course: Clarence Zerbel, John Groop.

Announcer: Joseph Shipman.

RALLY IN 7TH BEATS PHILLIES

Errickson, Bees Twirler, Holds Visitors to Five Blows

Boston, May 29 (AP)—Manager Casey Stengel, who has had few such opportunities this season, gloated over a second consecutive splendid pitching performance today as Dick Errickson, aided by a lusty seventh inning rally, hurled his Boston Bees to a 3-1 victory over the Phillies.

Errickson held the visitors to five hits, almost duplicating the excellent exhibition Sailor Bill Posedel gave against the Giants in the Bees' previous start.

The Boston team collected four of its six hits and all of its three runs in the stretch seventh off the Phillies' starting pitcher, Walter Beck.

Kauppi To Operate Isle Royale Boat

Gay, Mich.—Charles Kauppi of Gay and Copper Harbor has announced that his boat service from Copper Harbor to Isle Royale will be resumed July 2.

The large cabin cruiser Isle Royale Queen will leave Copper Harbor Tuesdays and and Thursdays at 8 a. m., returning to Copper Harbor Wednesdays and Fridays about 7 p. m. This schedule will apply until July 15, after which the Isle Royale Queen will leave Copper Harbor on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 8 a. m., returning on the evening of the following day. Fare for the round trip will be $5 per person.

Holger Johnson will also operate scheduled service at frequent intervals from Copper Harbor on the Keweenaw Peninsula. A venture at Isle Royale which promises to be very popular will be the operation of boats from Rock Harbor all the way around Isle Royale once or twice a week. It is believed that the around-island trip will appeal to many people because of its outright novelty and the opportunity to visit some of the beaches where semiprecious stones are found, as well as the prehistoric copper mining pits which dot the north and south shores of Isle Royale.

RAINBOW LOOP OPENING TODAY

Eagles and City Team of Last Year Combine This Season

The Escanaba city baseball team make its debut in Rainbow league competition this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the 23rd Street diamond with Munising furnishing the opposition.

This year's team is a combination of players from last year's city team of the Northern Michigan Wisconsin league and of the Eagles, which won the Rainbow title last year. In addition, there are several new faces in the lineup.

Manager George Williams said yesterday that all positions on the team are open at this time and final decision on a lineup probably will not be made for several games.

Benny Greenless, who hurled effective ball for the Eagles last year, is expected to draw the the starting assignment against Munising. Toodles Flath, who managed the city team during the last part of last season, will catch.

Other players include Gregory, Maycunich and Couillard of the city team last year and Brown, Dube, Carlson and Perle of the Eagles. New faces will include Thorin, a lefty first baseman, and Johnson, pitcher.

The Munising lineup is expected to be much the same as that which played last year and Malone and Boyak undoubtedly will be the battery facing Escanaba this afternoon.

In the other Rainbow leage game, Manistique and Gladstone, two ancient rivals, will clash.

Back to Old Stamping Grounds

EARL STOLBERG MARQUETTE POLE VAULTER

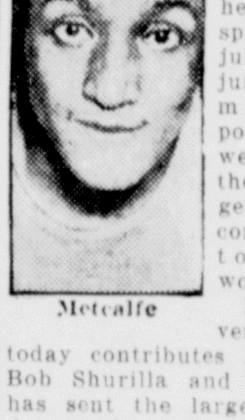
A large crowd of track fans from Iron Mountain, Norway, Kingsford, Vulcan and the range are expected at the Upper Peninsula Relay Carnival this afternoon to watch their favorite son, Earl Stolberg, Marquette university pole vaulter, who returns to his old stamping grounds.

Stolberg, former Iron Mountain high school athletic star, set the existing Relays record in the pole vault of 12 feet 3 inches. Since that time, he has become one of the nation's best vaulters. He recently entered the select circle of boys who have topped the 14 foot mark. His dad, Carl Stolberg, a tailor who was a fine athlete in his younger days in Europe, will be on hand to see Earl vault for the first time.

Bob Shurilla and Art Schwope, two crack hurdlers from Marquette University, will give an exhibition in the art of timber topping. These two boys are evenly matched and between them have won just about every hurdle race the Hilltops have been in this year.

World Famed Stars Have Appeared At U. P. Relays

Some of the nation's best college athletes have appeared in special exhibitions at the Upper Peninsula Relay Carnival since its inauguration in 1928, included among them were several Olympic performers.



Metcalfe

The list of college athletes who have appeared here include sprinters, high jumpers, broad jumpers, distance men, hurdlers, pole vaulters and weight men and their records together would come pretty close to equalling world marks.

Marquette university, which today contributes Earl Stolberg, Bob Shurilla and Art Schwope, has sent the largest delegation. Among them have been Ralph Metcalfe and Jack Tierney, sprinters; Ed Burke, high jumper; Gene Ronzani, weight man; Carroll Roark and Escanaba's own Dick Schram, pole vaulters.

Athletes Are Listed

Stolberg is the fourth Upper Peninsula boy to return to the Relay Carnival in special exhibitions, Dick Schram, also of Marquette, having given a pole vault exhibition, and Cliff Liberty of Gladstone, then of Michigan State, giving a hurdling exhibition, and Ronzani in the field events.

The complete list of former Relay Carnival attractions follows:

1928—Freddie Alderman, Michigan State, and Lloyd Seestad, Michigan Tech, sprinters.

1929—Elton Hess, University of Minnesota, pole vaulter.

1930—Tom Warne, Northwestern university, pole vaulter.

1931—Lee Sentman and Chuck Werner, hurdlers, and Verne McDermont, pole vaulter, University of Illinois.

1932—Ralph Metcalfe and Jack Tierney, Marquette university, sprinters.

1933—Dick Schram and Carroll Roark, pole vaulters, and Gene Ronzani, weight man, of Marquette; and Cliff Liberty and Ted Bath, hurdlers, Michigan State.

1934—Ralph Metcalfe, Marquette uinversity, sprinter.

1935—No attraction.

1936—Ed Burke, Marquette university, high jumper.

1937—Sam Stoller, sprinter, and Dave Hunn, pole vaulter, University of Michigan.

1938—Chuck Fenske, distance man, and Riley Best, high jumper, University of Wisconsin.

1939—Walter Mehl, distance man, Ralph Moeller, weight man, and Riley Best, high jumper, University of Wisconsin.

1940—Earl Stolberg, pole vaulter, and Bob Shurilla and Art Schwope, hurdlers, Marquette university.

SHOES ON DISPLAY

New York—One of the sports exhibitions at the World's Fair are the shoes worn by Ward Cuff, the Giants' former Marquette star, who led the National Football League in field goals last fall.

SALINAS SPRINTER SHARP

Salinas, Calif.—Harold Davis, Salinas Junior college star, has been clocked in 9.6 and 20.6 for the 100 and 220 this spring.

ANOTHER HEATH

Seattle—Larry Heath, younger brother of Jeff Heath, Cleveland outfielder, pitches for the University of Washington.

SPEEDWAY RACE OFF AT 11 A. M.

Stake At Indianapolis Is $100,000; Over 125,000 Watch

BY HAROLD HARRISON

Indianapolis, May 29, (AP)—A bomb will burst at 10 a. m. (CST) tomorrow—weather permitting—and 33, or perhaps only 32 stiff-helmeted race drivers will roar off, before some 125,000 spectators, in a gruelling four-hour test of men and motors—the twenty-eighth annual 500-mile race.

The stake in the Memorial Day marathon over Indianapolis' two-and-a-half-mile brick-and-asphalt speedway will be $100,000 in prize money, to be divided among the contestants. The winner will draw down from $25,000 to $35,000, depending on the number of laps he leads.

Frenchman Has Misfortune

Doubt over the number of starters grew out of the breakdown yesterday of an Italian-built Maserati to have been driven by Rene Lebegue, French soldier on leave.

If this can be repaired before the race starts, Lebegue will be in the field. Otherwise, American Automobile Association officials must rule whether a car driven by Tony Willman of Milwaukee, qualified for the race but crowded out by faster machines, may replace it.

Assuring international flavor will be Raul Riganti of Buenos Aires, Argentina, the South American champion, at the wheel of a new Maserati—rated by most trackside observers as one of the fastest speedsters in the event.

Two former winners will be in the race. They are Wilbur Shaw of Indianapolis, seeking to tie Louis Meyer of Huntington Park, Calif., as a three-time victor, and Kelly Petillo of Los Angeles.

Shaw will drive another Maserati, the same car in which he won last year. He also was first in 1937. Petillo won in 1935.

Mays On Inside

On the basis of qualifying speeds the field is not as fast as that of a year ago, but only two starters qualified at an average of less than 120 miles an hour.

To qualify, a car had to make four laps of the two-and-a-half-mile track in at least 115 miles an hour, but only the swiftest 33 are eligible to start.

On the inside in the front row will be Rex Mays of Glendale, Calif., who qualified the first day at 127.850 miles an hour, best speed of all. Mays will drive the eight-cylinder American-built car Meyer had last year.

Shaw and Mauri Rose of Columbus, O., will be the other drivers in the first row.

After two weeks of rain and cold weather, the forecast for tomorrow was sunshine and cool. Bad weather handicapped drivers throughout the qualifying period. Until Monday only 19 cars had qualified.

With five exceptions the cars will be powered with four or eight cylinder motors. Bob Swanson of Los Angeles will drive a 16-cylinder racer built from the car in which Frank Lockhart was killed in a speed run several years ago. Four speedsters will have six-cylinder motors.

Three Lads Run Away; Keep Police On Jump

Three Hancock lads, 15 and 16 years old, caused considerable scurrying about by police, sheriff's men and state police in half a dozen Upper Peninsula counties in an escapade that began late Tuesday and is scheduled for a finish today.

Spurred by war stories that aircraft work is scheduled for a pick-up, the lads ate early and healthy suppers at their homes in Hancock Tuesday evening and about 5 p. m. wandered down to the Hanson Motor company in Houghton, where they selected an automobile and drove away. They landed in L'Anse shortly after midnight and about 1:30 a. m. Wednesday abandoned the first car and chose another, which ran out of gas when they were about 35 miles north of Escanaba on highway US-41.

Early yesterday, a farmer gave the boys a ride to Rapid River and there they hooked a freight train ride to Gould City, where Manistique state police took the boys off the train.

When the farmer picked the three lads up, he reasoned that they might be fugitives and notified Gladstone police. Gladstone police notified Escanaba police, who notified Sheriff William E. Miron of Delta county, who notified state police at Manistique and St. Ignace.

It was through a tip from a man at Gulliver that the state police stopped the lads at Gould City. The train had stopped to switch at Gulliver and the boys were noted hanging around and then hopping the train.

The car abandoned near Trenary was recovered yesterday by Deputy Paul Creten of the Delta county sheriff's office and State Troopers Leonard Bartelli and Clarence Beuerle arrived here last night with Delmar Duchaine of L'Anse, who identified and recovered his car.

The police and Mr. Duchaine were to report to Manistique police today and take the three lads back to Houghton, where they will be dealt with by the probate judge, in charge of juvenile delinquency.

Briefly Told

Schools Open Friday—The Escanaba public schools will be closed today, in observance of Memorial Day, but classes will be resumed on Friday, it was announced by Supt. John A. Lemmer.

Townsend Meeting — A special meeting of the Escanaba Townsend club will be held at the Escanaba city hall at eight o'clock tonight. The guest speaker will be Dr. H. Truman Gordon, Townsend speaker of Chicago. His subject will be "Why I Prefer to Be an American." The public is invited to attend the meeting for which no admission is charged.

Escanaba Seniors Are Interviewed By Albion Coach

Dale Sprankle, a representative from Albion college, interviewed all seniors interested in attending the college yesterday morning at the Escanaba senior high school.

Catalogues and books depicting school life at the college were given out to the students by Mr. Sprankle.

Mr. Sprankle is staying in Escanaba today to act as honorary judge in the thirteenth annual Upper Peninsula Relays.

Officers Elected By Library Club

Members of the Library club of the Escanaba senior high school have elected their officers for the coming year.

Those elected were: president, Hazel Peterson; secretary-treasurer, Delores Houle; general chairman of the rules, Phyllis Brower; and general chairman of meetings, Verle Lieungh.

The vice president and reporter for next year will be elected in the fall when the new members have joined.

Fayette News

Smith-Raymond

Fayette, Mich.—Miss Rachel Marie Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Smith, of Fayette, became the bride of Bernard Joseph Raymond, son of Mrs. Agnes Raymond, also of Fayette, at a ceremony performed at the parsonage of St. John the Baptist church by Rev. Fr. Vincent C. Savageau.

The bride wore a double net redingote of yellow net over taffeta, with close fitting bodice, short puffed sleeves and full floor length skirt, and with it a headdress of harmonizing flowers and yellow accessories. Her bridesmaids, Miss Evon Smith and Miss Eunice Zerun, wore floor length dresses of pink and blue taffeta and carried yellow roses.

The bridegroom's attendants were Kenneth Peterson and Lester Raymond.

A wedding dinner was served at the Raymond home to thirty-six guests. Table decorations were in yellow, pink and blue.

The young couple will make their home in Fayette where Mr. Raymond operates a farm.

SCOUT CAMP OPENS JULY 6

Clarence Zerbel To Be Director This Season

Summer camp will open for Boy Scouts of Alger, Delta and Schoolcraft counties on July 6 and continue through August 3. The camp will have the highest registration of the past three years that it has been organized with approximately two hundred Scouts taking part in camp activities.

Zerbel

The camp will have the highest personnel rating of any camp in the Upper Peninsula with Clarence Zerbel, Escanaba junior high school principal, as camp director. Mr. Zerbel will attend the National Camp Directors school in Kenosha on June 18 to 23.

Wallace Cameron, superintendent of schools, Rapid River, will again be waterfront director. Mr. Cameron will receive a waterfront director's license at the Toledo, Ohio, National Aquatic school, which he will attend during the last part of June.

Scoutmasters and other volunteer leaders of the Council have been invited to serve as councilors during the camp season. The list of persons selected will be announced soon. In addition to the adult leaders, twelve advanced Scouts, fifteen years of age or older, will serve in the junior staff.

Many Improvements Made

Of interest to every boy in the Council is the new 65 foot T-dock erected through the cooperation of the United States Forest Service, since camp closed last year. The dock and diving board will add greatly to the waterfront layout. A new building, 20 by 30 feet, has been moved to the camp site and will be used as an office, first aid, and handicraft department. A Council ring seating over one hundred persons has been constructed. Conservation Civilion Corps groups are now working at the camp in fire hazard reduction and general clean-up.

Obituary

JUANITA LA LANDE

Funeral services for Juanita Agnes LaLande, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William LaLande of Osier, were held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Congregational church in Rapid River, Rev. A. W. Swann conducting the rites. The services for the eleven year old girl, killed when she was struck by a car on the highway near her home, were very largely attended.

Rev. Mr. Swann's Scripture reading was from Matthew, 18th chapter, first verse, and during the service, the choir sang "Sometime We'll Understand," and "Jesus, Lover of My Soul."

Burial was made in the Rapid River cemetery. Pallbearers were Dale Lancour, Donald Pfiffer, Edward St. Thomas, Bernard Gilland, Carl Gilland and Morley Roberts.

WILLIAM REHBIN

The body of William Rehbin, aged resident of Masonville, who died Tuesday, will rest in state at the Allo Funeral Home beginning today. Services will be held at the funeral home chapel Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. James G. Ward, rector of St. Stephen's church, officiating. Burial will be in Lakeview cemetery.

CLARENCE H. GREEN

Final rites for Clarence H. Green were held at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the First Methodist church, Rev. D. E. Evans officiating at the service.

The services were largely attended. The Escanaba Steam Laundry, where Mr. Green was employed for many years, was closed during the hours of the service, and the employees attended the services in a body.

The music of the service included two hymns, "Old Rugged Cross," and "Face to Face," sung by Mrs. R. M. LaVelle, with accompaniment by Mrs. Edward Lucas.

Burial was in Lakeview cemetery. Pallbearers were Eli Sauve, Earl Flagstadt, Leslie Farrell, Arthur Walker, Arthur Lauzon and Marcel Ashland.

Those attending the funeral included Mildred Green, of Detroit; Robert Green, of Yonkers, N. Y.; Mrs. Dwight Davis, of Okee, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Baron, Adams, Wis.; and Mrs. C. A. Clark, Green Bay.

MRS. DAVID SOULIER

Funeral services for Mrs. David Soulier, resident of Garden for many years, will be held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. John the Baptist church, Rev. Fr. V. C. Savageau officiating. Burial will be in the Garden cemetery. The body of Mrs. Soulier, removed from the Allo Funeral Home late Wednesday afternoon, is remaining at the family home until the hour of the service this morning.

Escanaba Woman Hurt In Accident At Stevens Point

Mrs. Celia Beauchamp of this city, mother of Mrs. Harry Needham, and Mrs. Fred Papin and Mose Mallette of Iron River, are in St. Michael's hospital at Stevens Point, Wis., suffering from serious injuries received when the car in which they were enroute to Baraboo, Wis., for the funeral of Louis Gibbs, left the road and went into the ditch three miles this side of Stevens Point.

Mrs. Beauchamp is suffering from a broken knee cap, a broken wrist and serious neck injuries, and Mrs. Papin and Mr. Mallette received severe gashes and bruises. Mrs. Fred Delorier and Miss Anna Claire Mallette, of Iron River, the other occupants of the car were less seriously hurt. The car was almost completely demolished.

Members of the party were saved from possible drowning in the deep water-filled ditch which had been flooded by recent rains, by the quick assistance of passing motorists, who removed them from the car and rushed them to the Stevens Point hospital.

SHAWL NABBED BY WARDENS

Cheboygan Fisherman to Have Hearing On Saturday

St. Ignace, May 29.—A. D. Shawl of Cheboygan will face charges in justice court here Saturday of possession and transportation of illegal fish.

Shawl, who operates a fishing business in the Garden peninsula, was arrested by conservation officers Saturday after 140 pounds of illegal whitefish were found in a 2,200 pound shipment. The arrest was made at St. Ignace.

Shawl pleaded not guilty to the charge and the trial was set for Saturday, June 1.

Mussel Industry In State Operates Only For A Month

Lansing — Michigan's mussel industry will operate only in the month of July again this year, the fish division of the department of conservation is informing early inquirers about the 1940 season.

Though the law provides for taking of mussels in July, August and September, since 1938 the conservation commission has limited the season to one month in the 35 southern counties where the mussels are found in commercial quantities, because of the scarcity of these freshwater claims.

In 1929 Michigan's mussel fishing was a half million dollar a year industry, employing about 2,500. In 1933, $85,000 worth of shells and $2,500 worth of pearls and slugs, which are imperfect pearls, were harvested by 822 licensed clammers. In 1934, with 1,362 clammers licensed, production dropped to $34,000. In 1939, only 88 licenses were issued.

The shells are used principally to make buttons. The industry is concentrated on streams and rivers because shells of Great Lakes clams are too thin for button making. Meat from the mussels sometimes is fed to pigs or dried for fish food.

For residents, the mussel fishing license costs $3, for non-residents, $50. The mussels may not be dredged out of the bottom, but must be picked up by hand rods or crowfoot bars to which the mussels attach themselves when the prongs come between the halves of the shell.

Gets Degree

HENRY MACIEJEWSKI

Munising, May 29—When graduation exercises are held in the Carthage college fieldhouse on June 3, Henry Maciejewski, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Maciejewski, Van Meer, will receive his bachelor of arts degree in music, having completed a four year course at the school. During his college years he majored in orchestral instruments and music theory and minored in psychology and English.

Monday will be the climax of four years of active college life for the Munising youth. During his time at Carthage he has taken an active part in many of the school's activities. He is president of the senior class, vice president of Alpha Psi Omega, national honorary dramatic fraternity; vice president of Lambda Sigma Kappa, local men's fraternity; a member of Pi Epsilon, men's music fraternity; El Circulo Castellano, Spanish club, and of the student council.

Henry is first tenor of the college a cappella choir, plays alto clarinet in the symphonic band, is tenor sax man in the college radio band, has the first chair in the violin section of the symphonic orchestra and is a regular soloist on radio broadcasts.

Besides these activities he has taken part in a number of dramatic productions at the college and has been a member of several groups who presented plays on tour through Iowa, Missouri and Illinois. He also is assistant instructor in the music department in charge of a class in stringed instruments.

Scholarship Won By John Artibee

Munising, May 29—John L. Artibee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abe Artibee, Lynn street, has been awarded a scholarship to the Michigan State college, East Lansing.

Award of the scholarship was made on the basis of John's high school record, the recommendation of the local committee and a comprehensive examination which he took at Crystal Falls. It will be renewed each year during his college course if his grades are sufficiently high.

Sixty-four Michigan State college alumni undergraduate scholarships were awarded to high school seniors in the state. The award represents a waiver of the college fee for three terms, approximately $120 for the year.

John is president of the Mather high school Hi-Y, was elected to the high school chapter of the National Honor society this year; served as president of his class in the tenth grade and was treasurer of the Hi-Y club in the eleventh grade and consistently has been named on the high school honor roll for his scholastic work.

SPEAKER PICKED FOR GRADUATION

Dr. Frye, Benton Harbor, to Talk At Mather High June 11

Munising, May 29—Dr. Glenn M. Frye, minister of Peace Temple, Benton Harbor, will give the annual commencement address to the Mather high school class of 1940 on Tuesday evening, June 11. Dr. Frye's topic will be "Making Democracy Safe for the World."

Dr. Frye is an eloquent speaker who is well known throughout the state. He has been the speaker at Older Boys' conferences in the state and has the ability to hold the interest of his listeners in rapt attention.

The Rev. Frederick T. Steen, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will deliver the annual baccalaureate address to the graduating class on Sunday evening, June 9.

The commencement and baccalaureate services, held in the Mather high school auditorium, will begin at 8:30 o'clock, half an hour later than the time in previous years.

Music for the programs will be under the direction of A. B. Clute, music supervisor for the Munising township schools.

Members of the graduating class are planning the annual Senior trip to Mackinac Island for June 6. The group will spend the day at the island and will end their activities there with a banquet. Sightseeing trips to the various points of historical and scenic interest on the island are being planned.

Initiation Held By Honor Society

Munising, May 29—Nine new members were initiated into the Mather high school chapter of the National Honor Society here this evening in the high school. John Artibee, Dorothy True, Marian Corey, Rosemary Beauparland and Roy Johnson, seniors, and Miriam Zastrow, Donlin Pangborn, Gerd Huse and Suzette Scholtes, juniors, were selected for membership in the organization. Alice Niemi, Margaret Truden, Mae Flavin and Marianna Dufour are members of the high school senior class who were chosen for membership last year.

Presentation of the honor society pins to the new members of the society was made by Dr. L. B. Ruggles, member of the Munising township school board. Mrs. Walter Jonas addressed the group during the meeting and a piano solo was given by Robert Berube and a baritone solo by Dalton Ebbeson. Miss Alice Niemi was in charge of the ritual.

Members of the honor society are selected each year from junior and senior class students on the basis of character, scholarship, leadership and service.

Miss Hazel Lowrey, Miss Mary Walsh and Howard Berkel were the faculty members who assisted in arranging the program.

Mather High Prom Arrangements Set

Munising, May 29—Arrangements have been completed for the annual Junior Prom at the Mather high school on Friday, May 31.

The grand march will be led by the junior class president, William Shaffstall, and his guest, Miss Suzette Scholtes, and the Senior class president, Roy Johnson, with his guest, Miss Dorothy True followed by junior and senior class officers and others attending.

Refreshments will be served during intermission. A floor show will be given by the students.

Music will be furnished by Jerry Salone and his orchestra of Iron Mountain. Dancing will be from 9 to 1 o'clock.

Tickets for the prom may be obtained from junior class members or at the door.

School Aid $19,101 In Alger District

Munising, May 29—School districts in Alger county will receive their May allotment of school aid totalling $19,101.61 this week. The amount has been received by the office of I. J. LaFave, county treasurer, from the office of the auditor general at Lansing. The money spent here was made up of primary supplement, $7,288.17; equalization, $9,847.55; tuition, $1,965.89.

Distribution was made as follows: Au Train, $544.86; Burt township, $919; Limestone, $1,241.16; Mathias, $2,705.91; Munising, $9,560.14; Rock River, $4,130.54.

IN JUSTICE COURT

Munising, May 29 — Gordon Tallon of Shingleton paid a fine of $1 and court costs of $4.85 here on Tuesday afternoon after he pleaded guilty to driving an automobile without an operator's license.

The Shingleton youth was given a summons to appear in justice court by City Patrolman Ernest Schultz on Saturday night. He pleaded guilty to the charge when he was arraigned in the justice court of J. Donlin Leiphart.

MUNISING BRIEFS

Whiteshield Buys Location On M-28

Trout Creek, Mich. — This southern Ontonagon county community now has a well equipped tourist information bureau at the Trout Creek state bank property on highway M-28 here, which has been purchased by Dr. C. F. Whiteshield.

Dr. Whiteshield will operate a drug store in the building where Upper Peninsula literature will be racked for the benefit of the touring public. "The doctor is 75 years young and is one of the outstanding characters of the north country," said a Trout Creek resident. "He is an authority on the fishing and other attractions of this part of the country, and his Cloverland poems are widely known. His agreeable personality and his fine new place of business constitute a real addition to sources of accurate tourist information in the district."

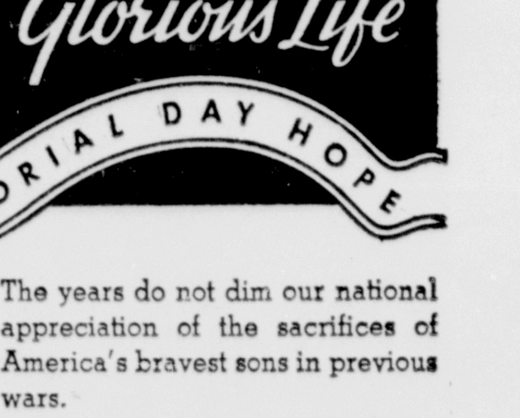
TO OUR PRESENT GENERATION—



The years do not dim our national appreciation of the sacrifices of America's bravest sons in previous wars.

But as we pay reverent tribute to them on Memorial Day this year, the fervent hope rises in our hearts that our youth of this generation may be given the glorious privilege of living for their country—to make it by their efforts a world-haven of peace, tolerance, and justice.
